CALL ROOSEVELT MANDATE CLAIM MERELY FICTION

Faces Worst Failure in His Career.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt returned from his week-end yachting tonight to face the most complete record of failure in his political career.

Congress is driving toward adjournment next Saturday with all the important items on the President's legislative program either shelved or scrapped. The conservative wing of the Democratic party is in open revolt against the President. The hold of the overwhelmingly reëlected Democratic President upon the overwhelmingly Democratic congress has become precarious.

Even the much vaunted "mandate" Mr. Roosevelt thought he received at the polls is being characterized as a political fiction by the increasing opposition to the Roosevelt policies.

Black to Be Confirmed.

The most heartening report the President received was the assurance of Senator Henry F. Ashurst [D., Ariz.], chairman of the senate judiciary committee, that the nomination of Senator Hugo L. Black [D., Ala.] to the Supreme court will be approved by the committee tomorrow and confirmed by the senate eventually, with only a dozen negative votes.

Though congress has been in session nearly eight months only one of the President's major recommendations of social and economic legislation has been written into law. That one is the Guffey coal control act establishing a little NRA in the bituminous coal industry.

The President's bill to pack the Supreme court was rejected overwhelmingly, with only 18 of 75 Democratic senators going into the last ditch with Mr. Roosevelt. Only a small remnant of the original measure, a bill revising procedure in the lower courts, was passed.

Wage-Hour Bill Shelved.

The next most important item on the Roosevelt program, the Black-Connery bill empowering the federal government to fix minimum wages and maximum hours of work has been shelved in the house after being passed by the senate. Speaker William H. Bankhead [D., Ala.] pronounced it dead for this session, at least, when the Democrats of the rules committee refused it right of way to consideration by the house on the grounds that the measure is economically unsound.

Consideration of proposals to reestablish AAA crop control, advanced by Mr. Roosevelt, notwithstanding the invalidation of federal control of agriculture by the Supreme court, has been postponed to the next session.

The Democrats and the farmers are divided on the issue of "scarcity economics" and the President won a pledge to make farm legislation the first order of business at the next session only by threatening to suspend government crop loans until crop limitation is reëstablished.

Block Roosevelt Control.

The President's plan to reorganize the administrative branch of the government has been whittled down by the house to eliminate all possibility of Mr. Roosevelt gaining domination of the quasi-judicial boards and commissions, and even the consideration of this bill by the senate has been postponed to the next session.

The President's slum clearance and low cost housing project embodied in the Wagner bill has been emasculated by the Democrats in both house and senate, leaving its feasibility for slum clearance in New York, Chicago, and other large cities highly questionable. This is one of the few Roosevelt measures still slated for passage at this session.

To Democratic criticism of half-baked legislative proposals by the administration has been added Democratic charges of half-baked diplomacy in the case of the Roosevelt scheme to lease six United States navy destroyers to Brazil. As a result the President has been compelled to withdraw the bill.

In addition to the circumscribed housing bill the only important Roosevelt measure still scheduled for passage at this session is the bill to plug hoopholes in the income tax laws. If, however, the debate should disclose loopholes in the loophole plugger this bill, too, will go over to the next session.

WHITE SOX MOVE INTO THIRD PLACE; CUBS' LEAD CUT

The White Sox wound up a 21 game eastern trip yesterday by winning a double-header from the Indians at Cleveland, 5 to 3 and 3 to 2. At the same time the Cubs ended their home stay of 21 games by losing two games to the Cincinnati Reds, 13 to 6 and 9 to 8.

The Sox's double victory lifted them back into third place, one half game behind the second place Detroit Tigers and a game and a half ahead of the Boston Red Sox. They are ten and a half games behind the league leading New York Yankees.

As a result of their double defeat the Cubs' lead over the second place New York Giants was cut to four games. When the Cubs started their home stay on July 27 they led the Giants by only two games.

MORON RAPES GIRL ARTIST, 25, IN LOOP HOTEL

Enters Room from Roof Next Door.

A colored moron, armed with a building brick, climbed into a fourth floor room of a loop hotel yesterday, beat a young white woman over the head and raped her, and escaped by way of the window through which he had entered.

The victim is Miss Virginia Austin, 25 years old, an artist and sculptor now working as a doll demonstrator in the toy department of a loop department store. She lived in room 414 of the Washington hotel, 167 West Washington street.

The crime against Miss Austin was the second of its kind in a year in the Washington hotel and the ninth in Chicago in less than two years. In three of the cases the rapists killed their victims.

Extraordinary Hunt Ordered.

The attack on Miss Austin brought orders from Chief John Prendergast of the uniformed force for all police to take extraordinary steps to capture her assailant.

Late in the afternoon Miss Austin went to the detective bureau to view six colored men who had been arrested on suspicion. She was accompanied by Walter Fleishaker of the firm of Fleishaker and Baum, toy manufacturers of New York. She is employed by that firm demonstrating a string puppet doll of her own invention.

She was unable to recognize any of the prisoners as her attacker.

Room Reached from Roof.

In the Washington hotel attack the intruder was able to step to the window of Miss Austin's room from the roof of the Musicians' Union building next door, which is reached by two fire escapes near the alley.

In a statement to the police Miss Austin, who checked out of the hotel last night, said: "I was aroused by some one choking me as I lay in bed and I felt a hand over the right side of my face. A voice kept telling me to be still or I would be killed. The man then asked me if I had any money and I said I had very little and needed it. He evidently hit me with the brick when he entered the room while I was asleep, for I don't remember the blow."

The victim said the colored rapist took $3 from her purse. She said she remembered asking him how he got into the room and how he knew she was alone. "Never mind, I know all about you," he replied.

She said the attack occurred just about daybreak, but the room was shadowy. She had a good view of his profile as he stepped to the window ledge and then pulled himself back to the roof of the Musicians' Union building.

First Attack Late in 1935.

The first of the nine hotel room rape cases was the attack on Mrs. Rose Landon of San Diego, Cal., in her room at the Lorraine hotel, 411 South Wabash avenue, in October, 1935. On May 9, 1936, Mrs. Lillian Guild was raped and murdered in her room at the Y. W. C. A. hotel, 830 South Michigan avenue.

Mrs. Florence Thompson Castle, slain in the Devonshire hotel, 19 East Ohio street, on June 28, 1936, was the third victim, and Miss Frances Veiger, raped at the Lorraine hotel on Aug. 12, 1936, was the fourth. The fifth, a woman whose name was suppressed, was raped in the Grant hotel, 6 North Dearborn street. On Aug. 16, 1936, Mrs. Mary Louise Trammel was raped and slain in the State hotel, 553 South State street. The seventh and eighth victims were Miss Alda Deery, attacked in the Washington hotel on Sept. 25, 1936, and Mrs. Berry Bryant, raped in the Lorraine hotel on July 16, this year.

Colored men were involved in all cases.

Ho, hum! The danger of a fall into the river just brings another yawn to Richard Merritt, 18 years old. In the city just two days from Atlanta, Ga., he took a few drinks Saturday night and climbed twenty feet to the top of the superstructure of the Clark street bridge, where he went to sleep. Firemen got him down with a ladder later and took him to a First district police station cell.

THE BOY WHO WORKED HIS WAY THROUGH ELECTORAL COLLEGE

RUNS DOWN WOMAN WITH AUTO TO ROB HER; LOOT ONLY $5

New York, Aug. 15.—[Special.]—A quiet looking young man, seated in a police station after leading police a wild chase through the Bronx, admitted today that he deliberately had run down a woman with his automobile, had robbed her of $5 after pretending to help her, and had then thrown her out of his car.

The prisoner was Edward Dryer, 27 years old. According to Assistant District Attorney George Tilzer, he admitted that when driving his heavy car this morning he saw Margaret McGuire, 31, crossing a street on her way to church, he ran her down.

Dryer stopped his car and asked if she needed medical attention. She said she did, and got into the car beside him. After driving a few blocks Dryer started to choke her. Then, Miss McGuire said, he looted her pocketbook of $5.

GERMAN PLANE HEADS FOR N. Y. FROM AZORES

Port Washington, N. Y., Aug. 15.—(AP)—The giant seaplane Nordmeer—Germany's contender in the international race to establish an air route across the Atlantic—droned steadily toward New York from the Azores tonight on its first survey flight.

The commander radioed the Pan-American Airways base here that the oil-burning craft was averaging 146 miles an hour since leaving the catapult of its mothership in the islands at 2:10 p.m. [Chicago daylight time].

Airline officials said the plane should land here between 7 and 9 a.m. tomorrow.

A Lion Squad in Evanston Uses Its Bean

When Ald. Hugo Pape of Evanston called the police early yesterday to complain that a roaring lion had moved in next door, only the No. 5 and No. 6 men of the lion squad went over, because they felt sure the alderman must be exaggerating.

But when they got there with their ropes and beans [that's right—read on!] they found that his complaint was a marvel of restraint. What he should have said was that his new neighbor was a roaring lion that walks tight wires.

The lion didn't roar at the officers. He gave them his most engaging smile and looked as if he'd like to have them in for dinner—his dinner.

Already Behind the Bars.

They wrote out an arrest slip. But since he was already behind the bars, they explained to each other, there really was no use taking him out of the big truck that is his cage just to move him over to the police station. Anyway, it would only frighten the desk sergeant.

They were just saying that the lion never lived that could frighten them when Arthur Michel came out. He's a real estate man living at 250 Ridge avenue, Evanston, next door to the alderman, and he's the lion's host.

Mr. Michel said that it was nobody's business if he wanted to entertain lions. They aren't a bit of trouble, he said. And at a party—well, you just ought to invite a lion in some time.

This particular lion is King Tuffy. He belongs to Robert Matthews of Los Angeles, whose wife is a sister of Mrs. Michel. Mr. and Mrs. Matthews are just back from a trip to Japan with their lion, and they're on their way to London to show King George how he can walk a tight wire, and they stopped off in Evanston for a visit.

Roars Only for Dinner.

Mr. Matthews said his lion roars only between 6 and 7 p. m. when dinner's late. Ald. Pape, nevertheless, insisted he didn't like living next door to a lion, and it didn't help matters any when the other Eighth ward alderman, Frank Campbell, came over to admire the lion.

But Mr. Matthews said he would remain three days, although he had meant to stay only one, and let all the neighbors see how King Tuffy can walk the tight wire. Lots of lions can't.

About the beans: Policemen Ivor Johnson and William Laning took the beans because the desk sergeant told them lions eat beans. You know, the old one that lions eat beans, human bein's. They'd never heard it. Lion squads so rarely have any work.

ONE KILLED, OTHERS INJURED BY BOMB AT ITALIAN CELEBRATION

Nicholas Mastandrea.

Nicholas Mastandrea, 42 years old, of 1420 Ohio street, was killed. Miss Faye Uzzo, 23, of 940 Cleveland avenue, and two or three others who were unidentified were injured.

The celebration, in honor of St. Joseph, centered in the vicinity of St. Philip Benizi church, 938 Cambridge avenue. Several thousand persons were in the streets at midnight when the fireworks show started. Mastandrea, who was helping to shoot the fireworks, lighted the aerial bomb. It exploded in front of him. He died in Henrotin hospital, where Miss Uzzo also was taken.

CO-ED AT BEREA SHOT TO DEATH IN CAMPUS AMBUSH

Berea, Ky., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Miss Opal Sturgell, Berea college sophomore, was ambushed and slain tonight while walking on the campus with a male companion. Police Chief Earl T. Hays announced he was seeking George E. Wells of Auxier, Ky., also a sophomore at the school, as a suspect in the shooting.

Miss Sturgell, wounded three times in the chest by pistol bullets, died without making a statement.

Her companion, William Anderson, a student at Berea academy, told police some one "suddenly jumped up from behind a clump of bushes and started firing."

Anderson told Police Chief Hays he and Miss Sturgell met Wells when they were together earlier in the day and that Wells threatened Miss Sturgell's life.

Hays said Wells was a former suitor of Miss Sturgell.

Rescue Iowa Youth After Fall in Yellowstone Park

WOMEN AND CHILDREN QUIT CITY; NEW BATTLE ON

Yanks Are Ordered to Concentrate for Evacuation.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 16 [Monday].—(AP)—An emergency council of ranking United States authorities decided today on immediate evacuation of all American women and children from Shanghai where their lives are endangered by the battle raging between Chinese and Japanese troops.

The decision came as marines and bluejackets were rushed ashore from the U. S. S. Augusta, flagship of the Asiatic fleet, to reënforce the American troops already on duty. Three Americans were killed in Saturday's bombing of the international quarter of this metropolis of 3,500,000 persons.

The decision to evacuate was made at a three hour conference in which Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, commander in chief of the Asiatic fleet, and Consul General Clarence Gauss took part.

Messengers Rush to Homes.

Messengers began immediately running from house to house notifying the Americans in Shanghai of the order. It was broadcast by radio to all Americans in central China which has become a field of operations in the undeclared Chinese-Japanese war.

Two hundred Americans aboard a Dollar line tender were on the verge of departing for the liner President Taft when they were caught in the crossfire of the Japanese warship Idzumo, repelling an attack from Chinese aerial raiders.

No one on the tender was injured. Shell splinters from the Idzumo's projectiles were all over downtown Shanghai.

British authorities today decided to evacuate women and children from Shanghai to the British colony at Hongkong.

Two Vessels Are Chartered.

The decision was announced after a conference of the British consul general and the commander in chief of British naval forces. Later it was announced authorities chartered two ships—the liner Rajuputana, belonging to the P. & O. Line, and the Empress of Asia, belonging to the Canadian Pacific Line.

The Empress of Asia is at Hongkong loading an additional British military unit, the Ulster Rifles, and was scheduled to sail for Shanghai this morning. On arriving it will be loaded immediately with as many as possible of Shanghai's 4,000 British women and children. The liner Rajuputana is to sail for Hongkong tomorrow with the first group.

United States Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson at Nanking advised Americans living at interior points to seek temporary places of safety, but warned them, "Do not go to Shanghai."

BULLETIN.

TOKIO, Aug. 16 (Monday).—(AP)—The foreign office announced today Foreign Minister Koki Hirota had ordered the Japanese charge d'affaires at Nanking to close the Japanese embassy and leave the Chinese capital at an opportune moment. Officials said it was not yet known whether the action constituted severance of diplomatic relations with China. Shinrokuo Hidaka, the Japanese charge d'affaires at Nanking, has been in charge since the present crisis started. Japanese Ambassador Shigeru Kawagoe has been in Shanghai. Consuls throughout China and all Japanese at Canton, Chefoo, and Tsinan also were to leave immediately.

BULLETIN.

[Copyright: 1937: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, Aug. 16 (Monday).—British and American requests that Shanghai be excluded from the sphere of military operations cannot now be accepted by Japan, according to the foreign office. The strongly worded British note submitted by the charge d'affaires, James L. Dodds, was handed to Foreign Minister Koki Hirota. Mr. Hirota replied that though he sympathized with the British desire, the situation was changing too rapidly, and while the Japanese were being attacked and fighting was going on he could not comply.

BULLETIN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Aug. 16 (Monday).—A Japanese squadron of heavy air bombers, which flew across the China sea from Japan, launched an attack on Chinese airports this morning, according to a dispatch from Shanghai.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 16.—[Monday]—(AP)—United States marines and bluejackets began landing from the U. S. S. Augusta, flagship of the Asiatic fleet, today to protect American lives endangered by the battle raging on land and water and in the air between Chinese and Japanese troops.

The British destroyer Duncan also hastened a landing party to bolster the international settlement guard.

The Duncan anchored directly off the British Shanghai club, from which the 120 marines sped ashore to join the present British force of 950, an American force of similar number, and a host of volunteers who kept guard along the International settlement frontiers.

Troops Spread Through City.

The Japanese began a concerted attack at dawn. Warships within the harbor rumbled with the roar of big guns. Troops spread through the city.

Twenty Japanese planes roared over the city to bomb Chinese airports in an hour of combat. There was a brief lull, then fighting was resumed.

Japanese planes dived over the city a second time in combat at 9:30 a. m., battling a force of Chinese ships which were bombing Japanese lines to the north and the Japanese inhabited Hongkew district of the International settlement.

The continuing conflict endangered thousands of foreigners, including Americans. Japanese reported that a number of Japanese citizens and several foreigners were killed when a Chinese bomb struck East Broadway in the vicinity of Hongkew creek. Seven Chinese bombers registered direct hits on the Japanese consular police station, seriously injuring two Japanese officials.

Thousands Run to Cover.

The sudden Japanese onslaught spread panic through the city, and hundreds of thousands of natives and foreigners ran to cover in the downtown districts where aerial warfare was centered.

Throughout the foreign residential areas, inhabitants packed windows and peered cautiously at the sky. But with equal caution, they kept indoors.

Chinese and foreign Red Cross units dotted the French settlement with trucks converted hastily into emergency ambulances for use wherever needed.

The French cruiser Lamotte Picquet moved into position directly opposite the French area, the docks be-

The American gunboat Sacramento spread a huge United States flag horizontally over the ship to warn combatant Chinese and Japanese planes.

Vice Admiral Kiyoshi Hasegawa, commanding the Japanese forces, issued a proclamation warning all noncombatants, irrespective of nationality, to evacuate the vicinity about Chinese airports, whether civil or military.

The Japanese commander threatened action would be taken against both military and civil aircraft transformed or capable of being transformed for military use.

British Volunteer Wounded.

The Shanghai volunteer corps, consisting of Americans and British and other nationalities, suffered its first casualty this morning. A Britisher received a bullet in the shoulder while on guard in the sector adjacent to the North railway station.

The 4,000 Americans within the city of 3,500,000 persons faced a food shortage as Shanghai was becoming increasingly isolated. They appealed to Washington, D. C., to instruct the United States marines to open their commissary to the community, if the need of food became acute.

As dawn broke twenty Japanese planes roared across the city and attacked Lunghwa and Hungjoa airports. The planes directed their offensive at Chinese positions near the Shanghai-Hangchow and the Shanghai-Nanking railways.

As the planes zoomed low for combat, great guns of Japanese warships began pounding at Chinese front lines a short distance down the Whangpoo river. Chinese shore batteries blazed in answer.

The Chinese about the airports apparently were caught completely by surprise.

Japanese Steal a March.

The Japanese, in effect, had stolen a march on the enemy—opening their attack ahead of the Chinese offensive which generally had been expected to begin at dawn.

The attack was reported to have spread to a wide area of central China, where the commercial wealth of the nation is centered. There were unconfirmed reports that the Japanese again had bombed the capital at Nanking this morning, repeating the attack which yesterday formed part of concerted effort to blast out the airdromes where China's air strength is based.

Sunday's typhoon had spent itself, and skies cleared to facilitate air battle under conditions far more favorable than the terrifying fight on Saturday—in which portions of the international zone were bombed and the city was thrown into terror.

Regular explosions of Chinese air bombs were audible from the direction of the Yangtze estuary. Many here believed that the Chinese were bombing incoming Japanese troops above Woosung, ten miles up the Whangpoo, at the point where that river joins the mighty Yangtze.

Battle Chinese Bombers.

Chinese bombers attempted to bomb Japanese headquarters and other strategic points before turning toward Woosung.

The International settlement narrowly escaped a new air bombing tragedy Sunday when a bomb from a Chinese plane, evidently aimed at the Japanese flagship Idzumo, fell into Soochow creek, but did not explode.

The United States navy tanker Ramapo was showered with shell splinters from Japanese anti-aircraft guns fighting off a Chinese plane attack as it sailed toward the sea.

Fresh fires started behind the lines of both enemies as sharp exchanges of artillery and machine gun fire continued. Japanese naval gunners claimed they had blotted out the palatial Chinese municipal center in Kiangwan.

Chinese refugees from the native district of Chapei reported that fifty Chinese were killed there when a Japanese shell exploded in the heart of the settlement.

Nanking, China's capital, Hangchow, and other inland cities were bombed yesterday as Japanese planes sought out the bases of Chinese army aviation. Hangchow, 100 miles southwest of here in Chekiang province, is the seat of China's largest aviation school.

There was no repetition of Saturday's terrible bombings of international areas in Shanghai, but police estimates of the toll of that day of horror rose to 910 dead and 1,200 wounded.

No More U. S. Casualties.

No additions were reported to Saturday's list of American casualties—three dead and two wounded.

But the police said their lists of foreign dead and wounded mounted to about 40, including one Britisher, shot while trying to cross Soochow creek, and three Russians killed.

The élite tearoom of the Palace hotel, which was wrecked Saturday by Chinese bombs, was not altogether deserted. Surrounded by bodies wrapped in blankets, foreigners sat at undamaged tables in the midst of the debris casually sipping their tea.

The bombing holocausts of Saturday were due to Chinese aviators apparently missing their targets—Japanese warships on the Whangpoo and Japanese land concentrations — and dumping bombs into crowded streets in the foreign controled areas, between the Cathay and Palace hotels in the international settlement and at the intersection of Avenue Edward VII. and Tibet road in the French concession.

Fire on Chinese Planes.

But Chinese planes were again over the city Sunday, although in smaller numbers than Saturday, calling forth frenzied bursts from the Japanese anti-aircraft batteries, spreading shrapnel and shell fragments over parts of the international settlement and further imperiling foreign lives.

Domei, the Japanese news agency, said the Japanese air force—apparently based on aircraft carriers off the confluence of the Yangtze and Whangpoo rivers—destroyed at least 40 Chinese planes in its raids Saturday and Sunday and badly damaged air base ground establishments.

At Hangchow, said Domei, ten bombers were destroyed and 16 combat planes were damaged before they could get off the ground to fight. At the Chienchiao base, west of Hangchow, Domei asserted, four Chinese planes were shot down.

TRAINER OF CHINESE PILOTS BLAMES ZEAL FOR BOMBING ERROR

Hagerstown, Md., Aug. 15.—(AP)—John H. Jouett, American aviation expert who laid the foundation for the Chinese air force now waging bitter warfare with Japanese invaders, said today the Shanghai bombing escapade was "most unfortunate—probably the result of over-enthusiasm and over-confidence."

Col. John H. Jouett.

Bombs rained from Chinese planes, manned, doubtless, by flyers trained at the Hangchow air school Jouett established five years ago, blasted congested Shanghai areas Saturday.

Jouett, former colonel in the United States army air service and now president of the Fairchild Aviation corporation here, said the Chinese pilots, "anxious to get in there and do things for their country," doubtless aimed their deadly projectiles at Japanese warships lying near by.

"What occurred," he said, "was most unfortunate. These confident and enthusiastic young flyers were trying high altitude bombing—a hard undertaking for anyone not constantly drilled in just that sort of thing.

"At modern airplane speed, a mistake of one second makes a difference of more than 100 yards in where a bomb strikes. The ships in the harbor were too close to the congested areas."

1,000 JAPS AND 500 CHINESE SLAIN IN BATTLE FOR PASS

PEIPING, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Chinese said today that 1,500 troops died in the battle for Nankow Pass, gateway to Inner Mongolia, thirty miles northwest of here. Five hundred were Chinese officers and men, it was stated here. The Japanese lost 1,000 the Chinese claimed.

The opposing forces still were locked in bitter struggle near Nankow, with a Japanese force estimated at 6,000 opposing 4,000 Chinese defenders at the pass in the Great Wall.

JAPAN DECIDES TO SUBDUE CHINA WITH 'FIRM HAND'

Premier Reports Cabinet's Plans to Mikado.

TOKIO, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The Japanese government's decision to resort to "firm, resolute measures," to deal with Chinese resistance at Shanghai, Nanking and in North China was reported to Emperor Hirohito today by Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoe.

The premier carried to the palace plans adopted by an early morning session of the cabinet to compel the Chinese government and especially the Kuomintang, the party which dominates that government, to "reconsider" its past opposition to Japan's purposes.

What measures were contemplated was not announced. Officials would not confirm Shanghai reports that Japanese army units were en route there, with the vanguards already landing.

Mikado Receives Admiral.

Admiral Mitsumasa Yonai, minister of the navy, was received by Emperor Hirohito this evening, indicating that important naval movements were in prospect.

Officials said it was almost certain an extraordinary session of parliament would be called for next month to vote additional war appropriations made necessary by the steady expansion of the China conflict.

A special session which adjourned only last week voted $145,000,000 for war purposes.

The new session will be asked to enact measures completing the process of putting Japan under a wartime economic regime and giving the government powers to maintain the foreign exchange rate of the yen and lower interest rates on government bonds.

Seek to End Anti-Japanism.

The aim of the Japanese government, the communique continued, "is to eradicate the anti-foreignism and anti-Japanism rampant in China and eliminate the causes thereof.

"The Japanese government harbors no territorial designs. It only intends to bring the Nanking government and the Kuomintang to reason. The Japanese government entertains no ill will toward the innocent Chinese masses. The Japanese government will spare no effort to safeguard foreign rights and interests in China."

Britain Sends More Troops to Shanghai from Hongkong

LONDON, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Great Britain decided tonight to send another battalion of troops from Hongkong to Shanghai to protect her interests, and to evacuate British nationals. Sir Robert G. Van Sittart, undersecretary for foreign affairs, sent instructions to the Shanghai consul general, empowering him to arrange evacuation. The British ambassador to Nanking lodged a strong protest with the Chinese government concerning bombing of the British China squadron's flagship, the Cumberland. The foreign office said yesterday it was bombed, but not hit, by planes off Woosung, 10 miles up the Whangpoo river from Shanghai, yesterday.

TWO FLYERS WHO RAINED DEATH ON SHANGHAI KILLED

Find Jap Bullets Struck Chinese Planes.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Aug. 16 [Monday].—Two Chinese army pilots, who participated in Saturday's tragic bombing of the International settlement, are dead, Chinese sources disclosed today.

A total of 2,110 persons, mostly Chinese, were killed or wounded in the carnage. Three Americans were among the dead. The Chinese bombs were intended for Japanese warships in the Whangpoo river. Instead they struck busy streets in the International zone.

Bullets from Japanese anti-aircraft guns it was officially announced, struck the planes of the two pilots. Fleet Capt. Jen. Yung-kow was dead when his plane landed. Pilot Liang Hung-yung brought his ship to a pancake landing in Chapei, the Chinese quarter north of the International settlement. He died later of bullet wounds.

Mme. Chiang Kai-shek, wife of China's dictator, today explained that the air bombing tragedy was due to bombs being loosed accidentally from Chinese planes damaged by Japanese gunners.

Sends Telegram to Mr. Roosevelt.

Mme. Chiang made this explanation in a telegram to Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt Jr., who yesterday entreated the dictator's wife to prevent a repetition of the tragedy. Mrs. Roosevelt, who is a visitor in Shanghai, had dined with Mme. Chiang, who is secretary general of the national air forces, in Nanking a few days ago.

Mrs. Roosevelt was staying at the Cathay hotel, which was badly damaged by the bombings. She again escaped injury yesterday when an unexploded shell struck a building a half block away from a residence in the French concession where she is a guest. This was her fourth escape.

Mme. Chiang's telegram to Mrs. Roosevelt said:

"Nobody deplores more than we the terribly tragic and accidental dropping of bombs from two damaged Northrop planes. The generalissimo [Chiang Kai-shek] was shocked and grieved and immediately ordered an investigation, since he had specifically ordered that no bombs be dropped south of Soochow creek [the boundary line of the settlement].

Bomb Racks Damaged.

"It has been officially reported that both pilots were seriously wounded as the result of Japanese anti-aircraft gunning, damaging the bomb racks and causing the bombs to break loose.

"I am grieved that the incredible belief could prevail that China deliberately ordered the bombing of the International settlement. What for? Many thanks for your interest. We share your grief over such an unfortunate and deplorable accident."

Among those killed in Saturday's bombing were 100 Chinese printers, pressmen and linotype operators employed by the publication of the department of the American Seventh Day Adventist mission which has headquarters at Washington, D. C.

The plant originally was located in the Japanese Hongkew section. It was closed as the result of Japanese occupation and the equipment was transferred south of Soochow creek. The printers rented quarters in a building which was struck by bombs.

Evacuate Hospital Patients.

Fearing new bombings and shelling the patients and staf of the General hospital in the Hongkew section were removed to the central floors of a new office building on Nanking road.

The American Seventh Day Adventists also removed patients and staf from their two institutions south of Soochow creek.

The Shanghai consular body as well as authorities of the French concession protested Saturday's bombing incidents. French authorities announced they "would not tolerate Chinese aircraft over the concession and reserved the right to take any action considered fit."

Dancer in Shanghai

TERESE RUDOLPH.

Mrs. Terese Rudolph, 1560 East 61st street, was anxiously awaiting word yesterday from her daughter, Terese, 21 years old, a professional dancer, who was in Shanghai, China, when recently heard from. Miss Rudolph, her mother said, has been under contract to dance in large hotels in the Chinese city. Several of these hotels were the scene of numerous casualties Saturday when bombs fell on Shanghai in the Chinese-Japanese conflict, and Mrs. Rudolph expressed fears her daughter may have been injured.

PLANES, BOATS RACE TO ARCTIC TO HUNT FLYERS

MOSCOW, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The soviet government today marshaled its extensive resources for penetrating the arctic to search for its most famous flyer, Sigismund Levanevsky, and five companions believed down on an ice floe somewhere between the north pole and Alaska.

Planes piloted by some of Russia's finest arctic flyers and two icebreakers were flying or steaming toward emergency bases around the north pole under orders to speed the hunt.

Levanevsky and his crew left Moscow Thursday for a transpolar hop to Fairbanks, Alaska, on a "flight" to Oakland, Cal. Their four motored monoplane crossed the pole Friday but soon thereafter reported one engine out of commission.

Faint signals Friday and yesterday indicated the plane was in trouble. The soviet flight committee announced it believed the plane had landed on an ice floe. Today some stations in Russia and Alaska heard faint signals on the plane's wave length, but there was no assurance they were from the missing flyers.

Mattern Hops for Fairbanks.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Seasoned flyers from the Alaskan side of the north pole prepared again today to resume their search in the arctic wastes for Sigismund Levanevsky and five other missing soviet airmen.

From Oakland, Cal., Jimmie Mattern, American flyer who was rescued by Levanevsky in the Siberian wastes in 1933, sped to the rescue. Mattern took off at 6:11 a. m. with 925 gallons of gasoline for Fairbanks, 2,600 miles away. He planned no intermediate stops.

Pope Takes Longest Walk Since Long Illness Began

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Pope Pius XI, today took his longest walk in a year. Starting by motor car through the gardens of his summer residence here at a point called Belvedere the pope ordered the car stopped, alighted and walked for several minutes. The pontiff has been seriously ill during most of the past year.

TRAIL 11 STRANGE DEATHS; FIND ALL POINT TO WIDOW

Bare Purchase of Large Quantities of Poison.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Investigating a series of deaths among elderly German acquaintances of blonde Mrs. Anna Hahn, Police Captain Patrick Hayes announced tonight he had uncovered evidence which indicated "she bought enough poison to kill half the town."

Mrs. Hahn, 31 year old German immigrant, is charged with the poison death of George Gseliman, 67 years old; and Lieut. George W. Schattle said she had been linked "either directly or indirectly" with eleven fatalities over an eight year period.

At least three mysterious illnesses also were under scrutiny.

Mrs. Hahn, calm and insistent in her declarations of innocence, attended church services in Hamilton county jail today and joined in hymn singing.

Jury to Hear Evidence.

Assistant Prosecutor Frank J. Gusweiler announced today that in the absence of Prosecutor Dudley Miller Outcalt he will present to the grand jury tomorrow "evidence in more than one case."

Outcalt has launched a far flung inquiry into what he termed "one of the biggest mass murders in this country."

Names of only five of the 11 fatalities have been made public. Others are being withheld, said Schattle, "for purposes of the investigation."

They date from that of Ernst Kohler, elderly teamster who died in 1933, to George Obendoerfer, moderately well-to-do cobbler, who succumbed in a Colorado Springs, Colo., hospital Aug. 1. Kohler, whom Mrs. Kahn identified as an old friend of her father's in Germany, bequeathed to her his $12,000 home.

Includes Elderly Pair.

Besides Gseliman, found dead in bed July 6, the list also includes Albert Palmer, 72, and Jacob Wagner, 78, who died in March and June of this year, respectively.

Assistant Prosecutor Gordon Scherer was due back in Cincinnati Wednesday following conferences with J. Edgar Hoover and possibly other federal operatives.

City Chemist O. P. Behrer reported finding the traces of two poisons—one metallic and the other oil—in vital organs of Gseliman, and in Colorado Springs, Coroner J. Thomas Coughlan awaited final results on the viscera of Obendoerfer. Of the five fatalities, Mrs. Kahn has admitted, Schattle said, that she knew four, and had ministered to them in their illnesses. She denied knowing Gseliman.

Interviewed in Jail.

Mrs. Hahn was interviewed in the presence of Chief Deputy George J. Heitzler as she sat down to breakfast in Hamilton county jail.

"Down in my heart and mind," she said, "I know I am innocent of this horrible crime."

She paused, then spoke slowly as if weighing each word:

"There may be more people on the outside who are guilty of crimes like I'm accused of than there is in here. Why don't they go out and find the real criminals?"

The blonde and comely German immigrant professed no fear of the future.

"One thing," Mrs. Hahn observed, "it took me a long, long time to find out that it is wrong to be good to people—that it doesn't pay to be good to them."

FARM COUPLE SHOT TO DEATH IN KITCHEN; CHILDREN FIND BODIES

John Hrubec.

John Hrubec, 45 years old, a WPA laborer, and his wife, Mary, 40, were found shot to death yesterday in the kitchen of their small farm home at 4800 South Harlem avenue in Lyons township. Willow Springs county highway police said Hrubec had shot and killed his wife with a 20 gauge shotgun and then killed himself. The bodies of the couple were found by their children, John Hrubec Jr., 16, and his sister, Sylvia, 11 years old. They summoned police.

Damage in the fire which on Saturday destroyed a huge barn on the farm of George S. Brainerd on Ivanhoe-Grayslake road, four miles west of Mundelein in Lake county, was estimated yesterday at $30,000. Several hundred passersby and neighboring farmers aided volunteer firemen from three villages in the unsuccessful battle to save the structure. Firemen were forced to haul water in oil tank trucks from Mundelein after the farm well was pumped dry. Three cows, 150 tons of hay, and considerable equipment were destroyed in the blaze.

Pankratz, 31 members; Grieg Male chorus, directed by Peter Olson, 48 members; Men's Chorus of Chicago Heights, directed by James Funk, 20 members; West Suburban Glee club, directed by Carl O. Behnke, 23 members.

The judges will be Henry V. Loeppert and Edward T. Clissold, for men; George Calder and Arthur Dunham, for women, and George D. Rees, David Nyvall Jr., and Clare John Thomas, for mixed groups. The public is invited and admission is free.

Following the contest, Noble Cain, general choral director of the festival, will lead all the contestants in rehearsing the Hallelujah Chorus from the Messiah, by Handel, and The Festival Hymn of Praise, by Walter Goodell, both of which will be sung on the program in Soldiers' Field. Mr. Goodell, a Chicago composer-musician, has dedicated this new composition to the Chicagoland Music Festival.

Several of the Cook county vocal winners in contests held during the last two weeks throughout Chicago will sing tomorrow noon at a Rotary club luncheon in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman.

Struck by a Train, Girl Gets Up and Walks Off

Kenosha, Wis., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Sophie Filipowicz, 13 years old, of Russell, Ill., was struck by a train here today and has only a few lacerations and cinder bruises to show for it.

She was walking along a spur track on the Milwaukee road when a passenger train switched in on it to let the Hiawatha go by. She was hurled some distance, but was able to walk from the scene.

POLICE DEBATE EFFECT OF BACK SALARY WAIVER

City policemen and others were debating yesterday what effect, if any, a so called joker clause just discovered in the city council order restoring pre-depression salaries might have on their back pay claims.

The clause stipulates that pre-depression salaries will not be restored Oct. 1, as scheduled, unless city employés waive their back pay claims. There is said to be $22,500,000 involved in back pay claims.

Police groups fighting for back pay in the courts said that if the claims are waived policemen will stand to lose from $1,800 to $2,800, according to their rank. Policeman Martin E. Joyce, president of the Chicago Patrolman's club, which has 5,562 members, indicated last night the waiver clause would be opposed. Ald. J. M. Arvey [24th], finance committee chairman, expressed surprise that the clause was included in the pay restoration order, but added that as long as it was there it was all right and pointed out that city employés already have lost six suits in which they tried to collect back pay.

Prison Fugitive Caught; Armed with Bread Knife

Jackson, Mich., Aug. 15.—(AP)—John McAllister Jr., 24 year old Detroit convict who escaped from Southern Michigan prison here Saturday night, was captured today as he sat in a Jackson park. Although he was armed with a bread knife he did not resist.

OPEN SECOND ROOM FOR LUNCHEON GUESTS AT MUSIC FESTIVAL

Reservations can still be made for the first Chicagoland Music Festival luncheon at 1 p. m. Friday in the Silver Forest of the Drake hotel. Although all the 800 seats have been taken in the Silver Forest proper an additional number of places are available in the adjoining Avenue of Palms. Persons seated there will be given chairs in the Silver Forest at the opening of the program.

Alexander Gray.

Two new stars were added yesterday to the program which will feature an address by Charles Wakefield Cadman, composer. Homer Rodeheaver, evangelist and song leader, will speak on "Community Singing in America," and Alexander Gray, who now is appearing in the Empire room of the Palmer house, will sing "One Alone" from the "Desert Song."

Plates at $1 each are available in room 1418 in Tribune Tower. Make checks payable to Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

PARAGUAY OUSTS FRANCO; PAIVA IS NEW PRESIDENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Aug. 15.—It was announced officially today that President Rafael Franco of Paraguay had resigned and is under arrest in his home. Dr. Felix Paiva, university law dean, has accepted an offer to assume the presidency and form a cabinet.

It is believed that Franco will go into exile abroad because he is at odds with the revolutionary leader, Lieut. Col. Ramon Paredes. Leaders of the army and navy forced Franco's cabinet to resign last Friday, but stated then that Franco would be continued in the office which he gained in a revolution in 1936.

Return of Ayala Seen.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 15.—Dr. Felix Paiva's occupancy of the presidency of Paraguay is not likely to last long, in the opinion of observers here. It is freely predicted that the Paraguayan people—tired of dictatorship—will recall former President Eusebio Ayala, who was deposed Feb. 17, 1936, and that he will head a constitutional government.

15 Missionaries Leave for Service in China

Court to Hear Rapist's Plea for New Trial Today

John Ardelean, 17 years old, a high school senior who was convicted of raping a little girl, will learn today whether he must spend the rest of his life in prison. A motion for a new trial in his behalf will be made before Judge John Prystalski in the Criminal court by his lawyer, Cameron Lutes. The attorney will attack the presentation of Ardelean's confession to the jury. The jury fixed the youth's sentence at life imprisonment. Assistant State's Attorney Richard Regan will ask Judge Prystalski to uphold the jury verdict and commit Ardelean to prison.

CHURCH LEAGUE OPPOSES BLACK FOR HIGH COURT

Launches Protest Against Senate Confirmation.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

A nation-wide religious protest against senate confirmation of Senator Hugo L. Black of Alabama as associate justice of the Supreme court was set in motion yesterday at a special meeting of executives of the Church League of America, 53 West Jackson boulevard. The league, of which Frank J. Loesch is national president, made a similar protest on religious grounds against President Roosevelt's court packing scheme, and is in touch with more than 50,000 church and synagog leaders throughout the country.

According to George W. Robnett, league secretary, officers of the league expressed fear that the issue of racial and religious intolerance has been brought to the surface by the President's nomination of Senator Black. In the choice of Black the league sees encouragement to the Ku Klux Klan, the Silver Shirts, Pan Aryan alliance, Fritz Kuhn's American Nazis, and other organized agents of bigotry. Black's reported Klan connections have been the basis for bitter opposition to his appointment in Washington.

Protest Sent Senator Lewis.

The first move taken by the Church league executive group was to send a letter to Senator James Hamilton Lewis, protesting Senator Black's nomination.

Copies of this letter will then be sent to the league's thousands of members as a basis of protest to be used by members and friends in letters and telegrams to their representatives in the United States senate.

The letter asks Senator Lewis to give thoughtful consideration to seven points which the league believes militate against the confirmation of Senator Black:

"1. The Supreme court nominee has been in some way identified with a secret organization which, for several years, directed its energy toward raising antipathies against persons of certain faiths and races. This identification of Senator Black with such an organization would encourage all such agencies to continue to jeopardize American ideals of religious freedom as set forth in the American bill of rights. This is the second time a presidential proposal has contained a threat to religious liberty during this administration.

Cites Anti-Lynching Stand.

"2. The nominee is on record as opposing the anti-lynching bill.

"3. The nominee has openly expressed disdain for the Supreme court as an institution. Such expressions would seem to raise the question of his moral fitness as a member of the Supreme court.

"4. The nominee has manifested a large measure of disregard for the bill of rights by unwaranted seizure of personal papers of citizens and by other methods of conduct during his management of the senate investigation popularly known as the Black inquisition.

"5. The nominee either has sponsored or abetted most of the legislation which will come before the Supreme court during the next two years.

"6. The nominee has demonstrated repeatedly an inclination to intemperance of utterance and manifested a spirit of intolerance which would seem to place grave doubt upon his having that quality known as judicial temperament.

"7. The nominee lacks expérience which would seem necessary to qualify him for his duties in the Supreme court."

PLAN TO REVAMP SOCIAL SECURITY ON A CASH BASIS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—(AP)—The next congress may be asked to overhaul financing provisions of the huge social security program, officials said today. The major change being considered would avoid the accumulation of huge reserves, a point on which there has been much criticism of the social security act.

Under the present program reserves represented by treasury obligations eventually would total about 49 billion dollars for the old age pension alone. Reserves for the unemployment program also will run into the billions, but no estimate of the total has been made.

A 49 billion dollar reserve for old age pensions would make a public debt in that amount mandatory on the treasury. Moreover, the debt would be represented solely by obligations in the reserve account, giving investors no opportunity to purchase government securities.

Officials said consideration is being given to limiting reserves to a few billion dollars. Benefits would be paid from social security tax receipts and the program would, in effect, be operated on a "pay-as-you-go" basis.

SEEK 2 IN $810 ROBBERY.

HOW WE FOUND OUT WHAT CLOTHES YOU REALLY WANT FOR COLLEGE! OR THE STORY OF OUR FASHION CONTEST FOR COLLEGE GIRLS!

EIGHT ENTHUSIASTIC COLLEGE GIRLS FORM OUR COLLEGE WARDROBE CONSULTATION BUREAU!

WE went straight to the heart of the matter! We asked College students! Enrolled in a contest eighty-nine fashion-interested girls! We sent them two elaborate quizzes on campus clothes. We offered five substantial prizes to the five winners and a prize to everyone who entered the contest.

THE wealth of information we received gave us lots of ideas; for instance—why you like big, roomy pockets in your casual coats . . , that you want a three-piece suit, with the undersuit not too bulky under the topcoat . . . that you demand plenty of sweaters and skirts . . . that you favor the "informal formal"!

THESE eight girls, right from the campus, are in our College Wardrobe now, eager to give you real, practical assistance on your clothes problems whether you're going east, west, north, or south.

READING right down the line: JANET POWERS, class of '38 at Northwestern, won first prize. She accompanied our buyers to New York, where she helped assemble College merchandise.

BETSY BURD, class of '38 at Northwestern, and MARJORIE NELL KELLY, class of '37 at Northwestern, tied for second place, so the second and third prizes offered to Northwestern were divided between them.

BETTY QUINN, class of 38, won the second prize offered to the University of Chicago.

ANITA JEAN ARCHER, class of '40, won the third prize offered to the University of Chicago.

BETTY ANN ERWIN, class of '38, Mount Holyoke College.

MOTHER AND TWO DAUGHTERS DIE IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Car Overturns in Crash West of Elgin.

A mother and two daughters, one a twin, were killed last night in a collision of two automobiles at State Route 47 and Burlington road, about ten miles west of Elgin. Five other persons were injured, one seriously.

Those killed were Mrs. Hulda Hitzeman, 44 years old, and her daughters, Letha, 18, the twin, and Viola, 20, of 209 Kimball street, Elgin. The person seriously hurt is Lois Westberg, 9, of the same address. She suffered a skull fracture, and is in St. Joseph's hospital, Elgin.

The Hitzemans and the Westberg girl were riding west in Burlington road in a car driven by Martin Hitzeman, 45, a carpenter, husband and father of the victims. Another daughter, Lucille, twin of Letha, also was in the car. At Highway 47 their car and the south bound machine of F. E. Melby, of Momence, Ill., and J. P. Hayden, of Joliet, collided. The Hitzeman car overturned.

Evanston Men Injured.

Four Evanston men were injured last night in a collision of two automobiles resulting, police said, from the failure of the driver of one of the cars to stop at a through street. The accident occurred at Dempster street and Fowler avenue, Evanston. The most seriously injured man was Joseph Dunn, 58 years old, 1922 Maple avenue, who suffered a skull fracture.

Dunn was riding west in Dempster street, a through street, with Theodore Steiner, 42 years old, of 2131 Wesley avenue, the driver, and James Natzkie, 30, of 4905 Pine avenue, Hammond, was probably seriously hurt when their automobile struck an uneven stretch of road under repairs in Torrence avenue at 131st street. The car hit a one foot deep hole and overturned. Police said Torrence avenue at this point is virtually closed. Both men were taken to the Chicago hospital where Schadel died.

Thomas Burke, 11 years old, of 8311 South Green street, was killed yesterday in a motor collision near Leamington, Ont. Eight other persons, including his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Burke, were injured. Among the injured was William Burke, 13, believed to be Thomas' brother.

Mr. and Mrs. John Robb looked out of their bedroom window yesterday morning and saw the rear end of an automobile protruding from the side of their frame house at 3516 95th street, Evergreen Park.

Owner of Car Injured.

John Murphy, 35 years old, 11549 Churchill avenue, lost control of the automobile, police said, as he was driving west in 95th street. The machine swerved across the prairie and crashed into the Robb home.

Murphy was slightly injured and his wife and Terrence Carr, 11115 Western avenue, were shaken.

Herbert Watson, 28, an Illinois Central railroad laborer, died in the Illinois Central hospital yesterday of injuries incurred last Friday when his motorcycle and an automobile collided at Western avenue and Dundonald lane in Flossmoor. The car was driven by Mrs. Charles A. Ford, a widow, of Flossmoor. She was unhurt. Watson, police said, lived on 155th street on the outskirts of Harvey.

Elmhurst police yesterday sought to identify the body of a man about 45 years old found Saturday night at North and Tenth avenues in Melrose Park, apparently the victim of a hit and run automobile driver. A label in the new blue suit worn by the man showed it had been purchased from H. C. Hesse & Co. in Elmhurst.

A farmer believed to be Stanley Kosewski, 30 years old, of Morton Grove, was probably fatally injured last night by a hit and run car at River and Higgins roads. His skull was fractured. He was taken to the County hospital.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 643 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 498 were killed in Chicago. In the same period 13,774 were injured in trafic accidents in the city.

THE old gentleman who was interested in elevators was waiting to hear more.

"Let me tell you about the INSTANT SIGNAL idea," I said. "The finest elevator engineers have for a long time wanted to lick the difficulty of having people wait for an elevator, not knowing which doors would ultimately open to receive them.

"It was a little embarrassing to them, too. You see, they had increased elevator speeds to save even fractions of seconds—in starting, in going between floors, in stopping, and in opening and closing doors. Finally, when their elevators were remarkably fast, they found they lost most of what they gained because when a car would stop, it would take three to five seconds for people who were standing in front of the wrong doors to get to those which opened.

"In our new elevators that problem has been solved."

The old man sat forward on the edge of his chair. "You know," he said rather confidentially, "my grandfather was a very peculiar man. He was, you might say—well," and his voice dropped to a whisper, "almost crazy"—his voice rose again—"on locomotives. Sometimes I think I'm that way about elevators. Now—how did they lick that problem?"

"Well, instead of telling you how they licked it, which is something too technical for me to describe, let me tell you what the result is."

"Yes, yes, of course," said my companion.

"Presume you are standing on any of our floors above the first floor, at one of these new banks of five elevators. You press the button to go up or down. INSTANTLY, a signal sounds and lights appear around the very doors of the elevator which is coming for you."

The old gentleman fairly beamed.

"That means that as soon as you press the button you can walk to the right elevator instantly and be there when the doors open. The signals you look at will be red arrows pointing down if you pressed the 'down' button. They will be green arrows pointing up if you pressed the 'up' button."

The old gentleman gave an approving quick motion of the head. "Tsk, tsk, tsk," and he clucked his lips. "Say, when did you say they will be ready for the public?"

"Well, I didn't say, but Wednesday of this week is the scheduled day."

"I'll certainly be there," he answered.

BACK ACHE? NO? TRY DOC WEISS' STEEL HAMMER!

He Wields It to Diagnose and to Cure.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Emil Weiss wields a hammer on his patients in making his diagnosis and in carrying out his treatments. A small, suave looking man, with a thatch of silver hair, a young face, dark brown eyes, and regular features, Weiss' bedside manner is as soft and smooth as his hammer is hard. He is one of 24 men and women awaiting trial on charges of violating the medical practice act.

When deputies called at Weiss' home and office, 3741 West Irving Park boulevard, to arrest him, he was missing. He was among the last to be apprehended in the drive against quack doctors made by the state department of registration and education.

Blazons Calling in Gold.

"E. Weiss, D. C. N. D., Obstercian [his spelling], Massage Dietician, Drugless Health," read Weiss' professional cards. On the downstairs door of his home are the words, lettered in gold: "E. Weiss, D. C. N. D., Obstercian, Naturpath."

Prior to his arrest, a TRIBUNE reporter rang his bell, ascended a stairway to a second floor flat, and was admitted by a neatly dressed woman.

"Is Dr. Weiss in?" she was asked.

"Doctor's busy just now," she said. "Will you wait?"

After a short wait in the comfortably furnished living room of the flat, Doc Weiss entered. It was a hot night, and he was in shirtsleeves, but he was neat and clean. His manner was confidential, his voice and words sympathetic. His grammar and pronunciation aside, he had all the earmarks of a doc who specializes in a large feminine practice.

The Doc Is Disappointed.

He stood aside as the reporter entered an adjoining room at his bidding, where he seated himself opposite her and leaned forward with a quizzical, friendly expression in his dark eyes.

"What's the trouble?" he asked.

The visitor said she had pains in her arms, and no energy.

"First, are you in a family way?" he asked.

The reporter said she was not. He appeared disappointed.

"Are you married?" he asked.

"No."

"Well, I'll give you a partial examination and diagnosis tonight, and later a more thorough one," he said. "I may have to have a urinalysis."

His Diagnosis Starts.

He then began his peculiar method of diagnosis. His treatment included samples of osteopathy, chiropractic and naprapathy. He is not licensed to perform any of these.

Under the law no one can use these treatments or do any diagnosing and treating of human ailments unless he has an osteopathic or chiropractic license or that of a physician and surgeon. Weiss is a licensed midwife, which entitles hin to treat only obstetrical cases. Yet he had diagnosed a man investigator for the state department of registration and education as having high blood pressure and had given him two treatments to cure the condition.

Seizing a small steel hammer, Doc Weiss hit the reporter on one side of her forehead, then on the other.

Surprised at Pain.

"Did that hurt?" he asked in surprise.

He then clutched the patient's head and pressed his hands hard between her eyebrows, evincing the same surprise that it hurt.

"Your sinuses are all right, but you have terrible headaches," he announced. "Do you have them regularly?"

"Why, I don't know," said his patient, wishing to be agreeable. "I guess so. Several times a week."

"You have migraine," he said without more ado. "Any hay fever?"

The reporter drew the line at hay fever. He applied a stethoscope to her heart and said it was slow.

No Heart Leakage—Yet.

"You have a weakened heart action," he said. "There's no leakage—YET. But it could occur any time if you don't build yourself up.

"You're not really sick, but you're in such a condition that you can't resist anything."

"O, doctor, that sounds pretty dangerous," said his patient.

Looking pretty solemn about it all, he applied the stethoscope to her lungs then. After listening for a time, he said:

"They're all right—NOW." Then he flashed a radiant smile, showing his even white teeth. "The thing is, young lady, everything about you's slowed down, and it's slowed down too much. Far too much.

And Now Some Advice.

"You need more flesh on you, too, girl," he went on, and pinched the patient's arm. "See how flabby this flesh is. There's nothing to it."

His diagnosis now complete, he preceded the actual treatment with fatherly advice, delivered in a soothing voice.

"I'm going to have to teach you to live different," he said, smiling. "You're a good, faithful little girl. I can see that. You work hard. You like your work, don't you?"

"Not right now," said the reporter, thinking of the investigator's experience. Doc Weiss had used the steel hammer up and down the spine. "I'm run down, I guess."

"You can work too hard," the doc continued. "You want to play some. Get more pleasure out of life. Get acquainted with some people who have a good time. You worry too much. You take life too serious."

Read Any Good Books Lately?

He urged his patient to read books on magnetism and psychology to improve her personality and learn to attract others to herself. He also advised reading a book called "Faith and Fear." She asked him to write the title and name of the author. He wrote: "Faitt and Fear by Dr. Sadler."

"You ought to eat a lot of celery, too," he said. "It has lots of—" he hesitated, then concluded: "lots of that stuff that builds you up—calcium, that's it.

"Now I will give you a treatment and see if you feel better. You can remove your blouse."

A Wrestling Hold.

He left the room and returned shortly. In rapid sequence, while his patient lay or sat up on his adjustable treatment table, he placed her arms, one at a time, in back of her neck and pulled her shoulder in a modified half-Nelson hold; locked his hands under her chin and pulled her head up sharply in a series of neck-looseners; grabbed one knee and the opposite hip and gave them sudden wrenching movements and worked her toes around, one by one, her ankles, and legs.

"Here's your sciatic nerve," he said. "It's the most important nerve in your body."

A touch of naprapathy was resorted to here. Then he seized the right arm and held it upright and worked along the muscles, kneading them.

A Wrenching Finale.

He wound up with a wrenching movement from side to side at the base of the back.

"I bet you'll think I'm pretty rough, won't you?" he asked.

Panting from his exertions, which included also a thorough pommeling of the spine, he told the reporter: "This is all I'll give you today. I don't want to give you too much at first. You might feel relief right away, and again it may take a little while. You can't tell. I'll give you a half dozen treatments, then a little rest, then some more if you're not well by that time."

He prescribed cold baths or showers, no warm baths, and the use of soap only once a week.

"Because of your rheumatic condition you shouldn't eat highly seasoned foods or many meats," he said.

The patient promised to return in two days and paid Doc Weiss $2. He gave her his card, a sympathetic smile, and bowed her out. As she departed a young woman who apparently had been waiting in the living room entered his office. Courteous and understanding, Doc Weiss turned to her, and the reporter, with an aching back, descended the stairs.

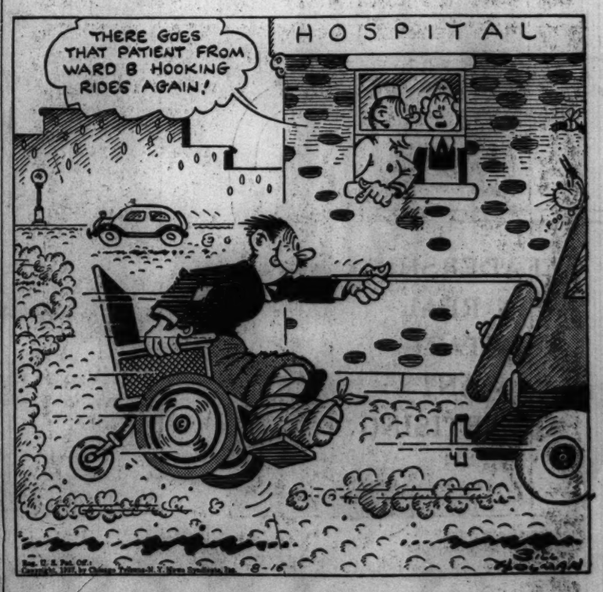
HOW TO KEEP FROM GROWING OLD



ANGRY GERMANS BURNING WHEAT, FRENCH ARE TOLD

Crop Short; Nazi Seizure Roils Peasants.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 15.—Angered by government requisition of the wheat crop, German peasants in many parts of the third reich have set fire to their own fields or silos, the newspaper L'Ordre declared today.

Heinrich Himmler.

As confirmation of these reports, L'Ordre cited a recent secret order by Heinrich Himmler, chief of the GSP [German secret police] and of all other police forces in the reich, prescribing extraordinary precautions around places where wheat is being threshed or grain stored. Continual inspections by police are made to assure the execution of Himmler's orders in the rural districts.

Battle Against Waste.

While the precautions against destruction of the precious grain cited by L'Ordre appear so extraordinary as to suggest an abnormal state of affairs in Germany, it is regarded by many observers as possible that the wave of incendiarism alleged by this paper is exaggerated and that eagerness to avoid the slightest wastage is the sole motive for the new police measures.

The Nazi campaign against the wastage of foodstuffs is carried out with such Teutonic thoroughness that in one village a man discovered cleaning tapestries with bread was arrested and given a stern warning by the police.

In any case, failure of the German wheat crop—it is at least 20 per cent below normal—is considered by French political circles as a capital factor in the European political situation. War or peace, it is asserted, may depend on it.

According to reports collected by the French intelligence service, Col. Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, commissar of the German four year plan for economic self sufficiency, informed Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler last month that in the face of the disastrous wheat crop Germany could not embark on a major war before Aug. 15, if then.

Prevented War, Is Belief.

There is serious reason to believe this fact alone prevented Hitler from declaring war on the Spanish government after the German battleship Deutschland was bombed off the Balearic islands in the Mediterranean May 29.

Fearing that Hitler would take a step which would bring Germany irrevocably into war with France, the German army chiefs, who believe the reich is not yet sufficiently prepared, concealed the news from Hitler and Propaganda Minister Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels for twelve hours and got Goering to present his pessimistic report on the wheat crop before breaking the news.

With the deadline allegedly set by Goering expiring today, the French are little worried.

On the one hand it is argued that now that the harvest is gathered in and the most pessimistic forecasts were fulfilled, Germany will feel less prepared to engage in a serious war.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

WHEATON, FIRM IN FAITH, GROWS WITH THE YEARS

Takes Bible Literally; Is Nonsectarian.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Wheaton college, which was organized in 1860 out of the old Illinois institute by Dr. Jonathan Blanchard, an earlier president of Knox college, has had the most phenomenal growth of all the liberal arts colleges during the last ten years.

Since the closing of Des Moines college a few years ago Wheaton has remained the only fundamentalist Protestant institution in the central west, and its drawing power comes from many states. Seventy per cent of its enrolment, exceeding 1,100, comes from outside the state, due to its distinctive aims and objectives.

Shun Liquor and Tobacco.

This growth is all the more astonishing in this day when it is found that all students on admission sign an agreement to abstain from the use of alcoholic liquors and tobacco, from card playing, dancing, from attendance at theaters, including moving pictures, and from meetings of secret societies. There are no fraternities or sororities, and the driving of automobiles is restricted to absolute necessity.

Despite all this the advance enrollment for 1937 is above the limit of 1,100 set by the administration and there is an average of four new applications a day.

At the head of the "platform" of Wheaton is this declaration:

"We believe in the scriptures of the Old and New Testaments as verbally inspired by God and inerrant in the original writings, and that they are of supreme and final authority in faith and life."

Stands on the Gospels.

"Wheaton college stands for an orthodox Gospel," it is stated. "Owing to the tendency in modern times to explain away the historic faith of Protestantism by discrediting or giving unwaranted interpretations to the words of Christ and the doctrins of the scriptures, efforts have been made to restate the faith in positive, unequivocal words."

The college is independent of any one church or denomination. More than thirty denominational groups are represented on the campus.

"Except Jehovah build the house they labor in vain that build it," is the explanation of Wheaton given by President J. Oliver Buswell Jr., who came to Wheaton in 1926. He is a graduate of the University of Minnesota in 1917 and the Presbyterian Theological seminary, Chicago, in 1923. He saw service in the world war and took a master of arts degree at the University of Chicago.

College Firmly Based.

"We believe that Wheaton is as firmly established upon its spiritual principles as any institution can be," he says. "Its doctrinal platform, its long years of Christian traditions, its deeds of gift conditioned upon loyalty to the standards, and, above all, the love of Christ in the hearts of the men and women who constitute its faculty and its board of trustees—all of these and many other factors seem to stand like impregnable bulwarks between Wheaton and the tides of faithlessness and godlessness which sweep around us."

Dr. Buswell finds a definite correlation between the size of the colleges founded under Christian auspices and the rigidity with which Christian standards are maintained.

"As just another liberal arts college," he says, "even though offering excellent educational advantages, Wheaton would have followed the curve of the ordinary liberal arts college of this part of the country. We should have declined in numbers during the most difficult years of the depression and we should now be coming back to approximately our pre-depression enrolment of perhaps 500 students.

Keep Faith in Wheaton.

"These young people have not come to us [50 from California, 120 from Pennsylvania] because Wheaton has excellent curriculum offerings. They have come because Wheaton is true to its spiritual standards and is strengthening its Christian position as it grows."

The faculty of Wheaton numbers 62 and its work is fully accredited. The value of college resources is placed at $2,371,000. It received its land from Warren L. Wheaton.

Wheaton's attitude toward modern economic and social trends is set forth by President Buswell, with supporting Bible verses, as follows:

"God is the sovereign owner of all. Man's ownership of property is a stewardship from God. The laws of God require justice and mercy in the use of property. The law of the year of jubilee and other laws were designed to prevent monopoly of agricultural land and to protect the private owner. The prophecies of the Messianic Kingdom age are not communistic. In the beginning of New Testament history communism was demonstrated to be a failure. Paul's teaching in regard to the individual's responsibility for his own household is very strong. In fact, one of chief objections to communism is that it tends to destroy the Christian family."

How Socialism Fails.

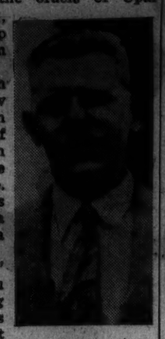
Prof. G. G. Cole of Wheaton's department of history and social science writes in "The Failure of Socialism":

"The Creator has not given an equality of personality and talent to every person. See 1 Cor. 12:4-10, etc. Socialism substitutes a mechanical equality which does not exist in nature nor in God's economy. The human philosophy called socialism is contrary to the philosophy of God.

"It would destroy the efficiency of the most successful system of adjustment to individual energy and thrift [the successful development of America until New Deal tampering]: Man's happiness cannot be machine made, else God would have created him without the function of free will. It is true that in his social adjustment, he must surrender some elements of personal liberty for the welfare of the whole, but socialism would take away all his liberty and reduce him to a mechanical plane of existence, just the thing which God, in His wisdom, did not arrange."

COUNTRY REPORTER UP TO EARS IN SWANK 'COVERS' BROADWAY

New York, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Mister "Fin" Petrie, the oracle of Opal [population 401], Wyoming, was up to his ears in swank today.



"Fin" Petrie.

Years ago when he landed in New York, a Scottish emigrant boy of 19, he bunked in an 8th avenue boarding house. Today, his hosts installed him in a Waldorf-Astoria suite.

But, let "Fin" himself tell you about it. Writing for the papers was what brought him to New York. He won a magazine's award for the best country newspaper correspondent with his column in the Kemmerer Gazette.

This week's column will be about New York. It says: "They gave the wife and I a bungalow, fitted out with more towels in the bathroom than we have at home. I even found a corkscrew attached to the bathroom wall, but failed so far to locate anything to put it in.

"Met a swell bunch of newspaper reporters, no more inquisitive than we are and, offered to buy them a drink, but all declined, that is, until my wife said, 'Fin will pay for it.'"

The reporters talked shop and wanted to know how a country correspondent works.

How does he get his news?

"Well, if I hear a woman talking to another woman in the store [he runs a general store], I put it down. And I listen in on the telephone."

Is he bothered with publicity seekers.

"No. If anybody wants anything in the paper I throw it away to make 'em mad."

SERVICE HONORS FORT DEARBORN MASSACRE DEAD

Several hundred persons stood hatless in the sun yesterday at Michigan boulevard and Wacker drive to honor the heroes of Fort Dearborn, who were massacred 125 years ago by the Indians. Memorial services were conducted by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, in coöperation with the Chicago Historical society and the Society of the War of 1812.

Sheaves of gladioli banked the London Guaranty and Accident building, site of old Fort Dearborn, before which Miss Emma Lee Walton, historian, stood to tell the story of the battle of Fort Dearborn.

Then followed a parade up Dearborn street, to continue the memorial at the Chicago Historical society building. Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, U. S. A., retired; Rear Admiral Hayne Ellis, U. S. N., and Floyd E. Thompson gave brief addresses.

Among the spectators were three descendants of familiar historic figures in the garrison. Mrs. Jeannette Albert, Jacksonville, Fla., a great-granddaughter of Capt. William Wells, and Virginia May Helm, 10 years old, 8201 Merrill avenue, great-granddaughter of Lieut. L. T. Helm, listened attentively to references to their forbears. Another was the granddaughter of Che-Chi-Pinqua, the friendly Indian called Chief Alexander Robinson by the whites—Mrs. Frances Winters of Norwood Park.

OIL BY THE TANK

Provisions

HENRY FORD believes what business men need is a good low-cost delivery unit. And because he believes it, he builds it!

People used to expect quick service. Now, they demand it! When Mrs. Jones orders a dozen eggs right away . . . she means right away . . . not when her grocer gets enough more orders to make up an efficient load. If Mr. Smith needs 2000 gallons of fuel oil by noon . . . he means 12 o'clock . . . not whenever the tank truck happens to be in the neighborhood.

To meet the demands for fast service at low cost, Ford now offers a choice of two engine sizes. With the 85-horsepower V-8, you can deliver a heavy load right on time . . . yet the cost is low, considering the weight of the load and the speed of the truck. With the thrifty new 60-horsepower V-8, you can deliver a light load and still have a good chance of making a profit!

Every type in the Ford V-8 Truck and Commercial Car line is available with the 85-horsepower V-8 engine. These types commonly used for light delivery work are available also with the 60-horsepower engine. Your Ford dealer will be glad to talk with you about your needs and arrange an "on-the-job" test without cost or obligation. Call him today and set a date to try a Ford V-8 Truck or Commercial Car under your own operating conditions.

ERIN'S CHILDREN DANCE HORNPIPE AT IRISH PICNIC

3 Other National Groups Have Celebrations.

Yesterday was Irish day, by proclamation of Mayor Kelly, and the Chicago sons and daughters of old Erin had a picnic. So did the Germans, Poles, and Norwegians, who possibly had depended upon the same lucky forecaster to select their weather.

For the Irish it was the first major get-together here in a decade, according to officials of the picnic committee. An estimated 30,000 persons assembled at the picnic grove in Riverview park.

Most of the Irish program was pure Celtic. The city's best bagpipers and warpipers vied for prizes. Hornpipes, jigs, and reels figured in another competition, and the attending throng was invited to try its hands—and feet—to the tune of the Harp and Shamrock orchestra.

Hurling Tops Sports.

Hurling, the national sport of Ireland, headlined the field events with a team from St. Louis opposing a Chicago squad in the game, which resembles ice hocky without the ice. There was a tug-of-war between the Irish and Germans, police and firemen, and John Toman's Sheriffs vs. Al Horan's Bailiffs. Baby and beauty contests last night were the final tests of the courage of the judges.

The Germans held their picnic at the same place. It was the 60th annual harvest festival of the Schwaben Verein, tied in with the celebration of Chicago's Charter Jubilee by means of pageant, folk songs, and dancing. This picnic, attended by an estimated 10,000, will continue through today.

Polish Societies Celebrate.

Two celebrations were held by organizations of Chicagoans of Polish ancestry. Combined societies of the Polish National Alliance of Chicago area had a picnic in Harms park, 4100 North Western avenue, in observance of Polish liberty. The Polish Roman Catholic Union of America held a celebration in the Union auditorium at Milwaukee avenue and Augusta boulevard to commemorate the checking of the Russian army by the Polish forces at the gates of Warsaw 17 years ago.

The 42d annual reunion and picnic of the Norwegian Old People's Home society, the largest affair of this nationality, attracted 5,000 persons to the grounds of the home at Nina and Avondale avenues.

ROBBERS WAIT FOR 2 WOMEN AND GET $2,000

A pair of patient bandits got $2,000 early today when they held up two women in the offices of the Edmanson-Bock Catering company at 2855 North Halsted street. The women, Mrs. Herman Bock, wife of one of the owners, and Miss Edith Thursie, an employé, had gone out last night making collections. The bandits, who evidently knew their movements, had broken into the company offices and were waiting when they returned.

As the women entered the robbers, both armed, stopped them. One was masked. The other wore smoked glasses. They took the money from Mrs. Bock, then locked the women in a storeroom and fled.

Another woman, Mrs. Marie Matthews, manager of the apartment building at 1204 Addison street, was held up about the same time. She and her husband, Harold Matthews, were menaced by the bandit, who stole $187, all but $20 rent money.

CARNIVAL QUEEN

FARADAY BENEDICT.

Miss Faraday Benedict, 6720 Bennett avenue, daughter of Commodore Robert Benedict of the Lake Michigan Yachting association, will be queen of the Carnival of the Lakes, the Charter Jubilee aquatic show staged Aug. 22 to 29 at the Lagoon theater. In making the announcement yesterday David Zimmerman, chairman of the carnival committee, said princesses representing each yacht club of Chicago will be chosen for Miss Benedict's court. She will reign over the carnival with Albert P. Snite, veteran yachtsman selected to represent Father Neptune.

Miss Ernestine Kleiber, 703 Willow street, will reign as beauty queen over the Austrian day celebration, a Charter Jubilee event, next Sunday at Harms park. By triumphing in a contest for the honor, Miss Kleiber also won an entry in the final jubilee beauty contest of the carnival.

DINNER TO MARK RAIL ENGINEER'S 43 YEAR SERVICE

Nearly 600 years of railroading will be represented by a dozen veteran engineers now operating streamline trains at a dinner in the Great Northern hotel tonight in tribute to Ed Buckley, 70 years old. Buckley, engineer of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railway's Zipper, is retiring after 43 years with that road. Another guest will be Conductor C. R. McCurdy, 75, who has worked with Buckley since the engineer started with the road in 1894. Among streamline engineers to attend will be George Johnson of the Green Diamond, A. M. Stockwell of the Wolverine, Tom Morrisey of the Zephyr, George Reid of the 400, James Leary of the Super-Chief, and James J. Murphy of the Hiawatha.

RUBBER STAMP JUSTICE.

Many of the President's friends are wondering how he could have nominated a man like Senator Black to the Supreme court. An equally pertinent inquiry raises the question how any man, even a Senator Black, could accept the office in the circumstances in which he finds himself.

He has denounced the court. He has sought to deprive it of dignity as well as power. He has sought to undermine it as an institution and he has hurled insults at the men who are now, in his calculation, to become his colleagues.

Moreover, Senator Black is fully committed in advance on questions of constitutionality which he will be called upon to decide as a judge. His distinction is that he is an administration man. For that reason and only for that reason he was nominated. He is not eminent for legal learning or for judicial poise and experience. On the contrary, in precisely these qualifications for office he is peculiarly deficient. He could be counted upon by the President to show a minimum of independence and it was on that account that the President selected him.

His decisions will forever be looked upon with suspicion as those of a man committed in advance on cases not yet argued. Inevitably, too, the question will arise whether a man who was elevated to the bench in such circumstances, whose constitutional views are determined by the desires of the administration, can render justice in other matters, including criminal and financial cases, in which his sponsors are also interested.

THE ATLANTIC CLIPPERS.

While it is a matter of routine to the crews, nothing could be more spectacular to the public than the trans-Atlantic flights of the Pan-American Airways' Clippers during their observation maneuvers. In the past trans-Atlantic flights have consisted of the takeoff, a long, breathless wait, then a news flash that the daredevil aviator had appeared through the mist off the Irish shore.

While in some cases planned schedules were completed, in many other instances the flyers landed on farms or in bogs miles from their objectives and hours late. The Clippers are different. They ascend at an appointed time, are continually in radio communication with their bases while in the air, and glide to a landing within two or three minutes of a stated time of arrival estimated by the captain before departure.

Earlier attempts were flights of adventure or exploration. The Pan-American's voyages are strictly business. Lindbergh plotted his course and then waited for favorable weather. The Clippers first receive their weather reports and then arrange their courses to avoid the bad spots. Air routes across the oceans are indicated by straight lines, but in practice they are almost never followed. The air distance from San Francisco to Honolulu is 2,410 miles, but it has been flown direct on only three of one hundred crossings. On one occasion a Pacific Clipper ventured 3,200 miles around a northern arc to select a fair weather route.

On the Atlantic route no hazardous areas are attempted. Weather reports are furnished from Port Washington, Shediac, N. B., Botwood, Newfoundland; Reykjavik, Iceland; Foynes, Ireland, as well as from numerous vessels on the ship lanes. These are radioed to the airplane flying 10,000 feet above clouds and water. At this altitude the semi-twilight that continues even during ordinary hours of darkness makes weather observation always possible.

Atlantic storms have heretofore been largely matters of mystery, dreaded by mariners, whose intuitions frequently failed them. Air navigation has proved that atmospheric disturbances can be anticipated, studied, plotted, and avoided.

OR "WHERE NEVER IS HEARD A DISCOURAGING WORD."

"Dear Alben," as Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the senate leader succeeding the late Joe Robinson, is now known to his colleagues because of Mr. Roosevelt's letter inviting him to take over the duties of leadership, has the White House indorsement because he is the best singer of "Wagon Wheels" known in Washington.

"Dear Alben" can sing "Wagon Wheels" in such full tones that when he does so any assemblage of the conscript fathers at once becomes a lively barber shop chorus.

Mr. Roosevelt, in extolling the virtues of "Dear Alben" to a gathering of the Democratic senators, said that this expression of his great good nature was invaluable in settling party problems harmoniously.

Senator Barkley probably appreciates this compliment more than he would an invitation from the Metropolitan Grand Opera company to appear in a number of important operatic rôles.

"Putzi" Hanfstaengl, the Harvard educated Nazi who now seems to be out of favor at the Nazi court, was won to support Herr Hitler because of the fascination of Der Fuehrer's oratory. He won the deep friendship of the Nazi dictator by his piano playing abilities. Whenever life became just a little too much for the Austrian who avenged Sadowa, Putzi would lead him into the music room and play the piano for him until the dictator was soothed and until his cares fell from him.

There is a non-Aryan precedent for this when David could soothe the tortured soul of Saul by playing to him on the harp. Just as your sympathies happen to fall, you may think of "Dear Alben" as "Putzi" to Hitler or David to Saul.

"Wagon Wheels" should be a Supreme court song. Mr. Roosevelt should prefer "Git Along, Little Dogies, Git Along."

THE NEW HIGH SCHOOL CURRICULUM.

Rumors to the effect that recent changes in the high school curriculum in Chicago would make it difficult if not impossible for our high school graduates to enter college were unfounded. Prof. A. W. Clevenger, secretary of the North Central association, has found nothing in the changes to justify these fears. The new curriculum has been passed upon favorably also by Charles C. Stadtman, first assistant superintendent of public instruction for the state.

Under the old system a child upon entering high school was required at once to elect the course of study he would pursue. He could take a college preparatory course or a variety of other courses preparing him for business, industry, or something else. Most children enter high school when they are 14 or 15 years old. The absurdity of requiring a youngster of that age to make the most important educational decision of his lifetime is manifest. The fact that the decision was reached in many instances by the parents rather than the child tended to minimize the absurdity, but even the parents of an adolescent can have only a most imperfect knowledge of his capabilities.

Under the new plan all the children in all the high schools will be required to take certain courses. They will all receive fundamental training in English, American history, and science. All will be required to take either music or drawing and gymnasium work. As the children disclose their capabilities and ambitions they will be advised to take other studies preparing them for the chosen career. No child who wants to go to college will be forbidden to take college preparatory work, but those who show little aptitude for academic studies will not be encouraged to undertake them. Arrangements have been made to offer expert guidance to the child and his parents.

In recent years all over the country the high school curriculum has presented a most difficult problem. For a variety of reasons the attendance in the high schools has increased enormously. The first effect in most communities was a marked lowering in educational standards. Classes were crowded and children were pushed through as rapidly as possible to make room for others. Where a serious effort was made to maintain the old standards the result was scarcely more satisfactory. Teachers found themselves obliged to devote the greater part of their time to backward youngsters with the result that the superior child was retarded. Some educators suggested that the brighter pupils be segregated and given the best the school afforded. The rest were to be herded into classes in tap dancing, rug weaving, and kindred subjects of little or no value to the child or to any one else. The plan adopted for the Chicago schools retains the advantages of this arrangement and avoids its unfairness and waste. The assumption is that, despite variations in natural endowment, most children are capable of work at the high school level. The future welfare of the country demands that they be instructed in certain fundamentals. Beyond that their training will be directed as far as possible in accord with their aptitudes and ambitions.

The change was bitterly denounced before its nature was known. The public was led to believe that the high schools were to be hopelessly degraded. Some parents were frightened by persistent rumors that the colleges would no longer accept graduates of the Chicago schools. The rumors were baseless. They were evidently the work of persons seeking to advance their own ends by making false accusations. The statements of Prof. Clevenger and Dr. Stadtman can be read as a warning against the acceptance by any one in future of unsupported charges of incompetence directed against school officials.

TEA INTERVAL FOR BASEBALL.

Our Cubs played a game with Pittsburgh last Thursday and one with Cincinnati Friday. The three teams combined used 13 pitchers, made 50 runs, 58 hits, and 15 errors. The National league would appear to be a major league in a really large way. It is to be hoped that the New York Yankees will gain enough experience before the end of their league season to cope with baseball as developed in the National league, which just now is majoring in everything.

We remember 'way back when the White Sox as the Hitless Wonders won the world championship from the Cubs, who were supposed to have everything. The Cubs may be able as the Pitchless Wonders to lure the Yankees into the interior and twist their bats around their necks, but there are Cub fans who may doubt it.

The way the game is played in the National league may be the baseball of the future. It is getting into cricket figures and a tea interval is indicated. Some innings suggest the improbability of getting a side out before dark.

Editorial of the Day

MISS YELLOW TRUCK.

[Detroit News.]

We should like to add our congratulations to the many which must have poured in before now on the good looking miss in the bathing suit who was chosen over 17 other contestants for the title of "Miss Yellow Truck" at a Walled lake picnic Sunday.

Since the death of B. L. T., the still remembered columnist of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, one has felt the need at times like this of something like his academy—a special hall of honor to which he consigned those who for one reason or another and not always of their own volition had attained distinctions outside the formal categories. He would have been delighted, we think, to honor the various spinach, bean, and onion queens who bask for an hour in the passing light of the picture pages; and would have been first, no doubt, to propose for an academy nomination the farm girl of northern Indiana who last year was named "Miss Muckiands of 1936."

There will be the irreverent who ask whether, all things considered, the title "Miss Yellow Truck" is worth winning. Where it means being named by competent judges the loveliest and most eyefilling among 18 attractive girls, we think it is. The pity is that fame of the sort is so ephemeral. There should be some Valhalla of the living to give it its proper and imperishable place.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

WE BECOME daily more vexed at the determination of most 'Way-Back-Whenners to keep the '80s and '90s constantly highlighted. Disturbing, too, is their proneness to choose a farm or a small town as the object of their nostalgia. Have those of us who came to consciousness in Chicago during the '00s of the present century no rights whatever?

Think of the world of that time, a world as different from the present as the Florence of the 1500s! Swaying bobcars on Colorado (now Fifth) avenue. The Elite theater (pronounced EEL-ite by all the natives) asking a nickel for admission to its wonderland of flickering westerns. The Soo line still on the surface at 40th avenue (later Crawford, now Pulaski!). Open street cars for summer, and conductors edging along the outer step for fares. The Hamlin theater featuring movies and vaudeville, charging 10 or 20 cents, according to the location of seats. A mysterious stretch of open prairie beyond 45th (now Kilbourn). Drug stores selling drugs, and little else except stamps. The kids buying orange balls and penny cones, saving pictures of battleships and baseball players. The cry of "Awly, awly orchin free" (phonetic spelling) through long summer evenings. . . . Here's a beginning, at least, for the west side. Will some one take up the cry for the north and south?

EXAMINATION

THERE ARE plenty of anecdotes designed to prove that men of uncommon mental or spiritual power manage to build up their own resources to the point where they are almost self-sufficient. Our most beloved example of this form of literature is Emerson's reputed reaction to a religious fanatic who announced that the world was about to end. "Very well, I can get along without it," declared the unruffled sage.

MISTER: I need a vacation badly. Instead of cooking, scrubbing and laundering at home I am going to cook, scrub and launder in a cottage by the lake! Therese.

Direct to you.

Though trivial the words I sent,

WITH PROFESSIONAL gloomsters announcing at regular intervals that the stage is doomed, it is healthy to keep in mind George Jean Nathan's dictum. The doll and the theater, he claims, are the only toys which have outlived and will continue to outlive the horde of attacking years.

MARS HAD the muses in full flight Saturday night when the war games on the lake front broke up a concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra. We shall conserve space by allowing the reader to draw his own parallels and to pursue alone the train of thought which this suggests.

TELLING IT IN CODE.

(Peoria Heights Sun, via Peoriana.)

With the leading minds of the Heights functioning so effectively, in order to protect the residents in maintaining an increasing valuation of the property, by constructing a zoning ordinance, which is in its final stage of becoming an ordinance. In accomplishing an erstwhile improvement such as, a zoning ordinance, in doing this it is hoped that they shall not quit in their untiring efforts until they have constructed an ordinance that is important and necessary to coincide with the zoning ordinance, which is a building code ordinance, that is so important in protecting the valuation of the property in the Heights.

HOW SOME CHICAGOANS BATTLED DEPRESSION

THE TRIBUNE here presents the story of another Chicagoan who, workless but with high courage, faced the recent depression and fought through it without applying for relief. There is no inference to be drawn that all could have done it; nevertheless the case cited is inspiring. This and succeeding cases are from the files of the Illinois state employment service.

Mrs. Kahler, a gray haired little woman of 59, came to Chicago from Wisconsin in 1929 with her husband and son. Three years later her husband died. Her son was 14, too young, she said, to work. Moreover, they had come to Chicago for his schooling, and he was to stay in school.

She had never worked, except as a girl at harvest time on the farm, but she began a house to house canvass as scrubwoman. The boy got odd jobs after school hours, and for four years they got along, their $10 a month rent being their largest burden.

Last month she walked from Mozart street to the Illinois state employment office at 231 West Monroe street to apply for work. There was a prospect, but she'd have to go to the 3200 block on Kedzie to see about it. She walked there, too. And the next day she walked from Mozart street to the 4800 block on Jackson boulevard to start work.

She now makes $15 a week as companion for an 82 year old woman, the job she walked endless miles to get. And she goes home at night, but not afoot, to be with her son, who will be graduated from high school next June.

PROTECT EYES FROM INJURY.

INJURIES to the eyes are of real economic significance. Almost one-third of the accidents reported by a large group of industries involved these organs. The damage varied from slight infections with no loss of vision to exceedingly serious cases in which the sight of one or both eyes was destroyed. Blindness, of course, carries with it a high degree of disability, and owners of manufacturing plants have become aware of the importance of this type of mishap and have helped to prevent thousands of injuries through appropriate safety measures.

Chief among these is the wearing of goggles by men employed in occupations dangerous to the eyes. Such devices are made either of thick, case-hardened glass which is practically unbreakable, or of laminated glass in which a thin sheet of celluloid is placed between the two layers. While these spectacles may be cracked, they offer great protection to the eyes; they will not shatter and cut the organs when struck.

The many injuries which still occur involve chiefly workmen who are not protected by goggles or who have taken them off for some reason, possibly only for a moment. One man on his way home was walking through a room where ore was being melted. On turning to speak to a friend he received a drop of molten metal in one eye, resulting in its complete loss. Extra, not just ordinary, precaution would have prevented this catastrophe. The authorities in charge of safety work must exercise constant vigilance to enforce the rule regarding goggles, as certain workers insist on taking them off on hot days despite all instructions. Some mills have the same rigid requirement as to the wearing of goggles by helpers and persons passing near dangerous work.

A type of activity which threatens great damage to the eyes and which has received little consideration is agriculture. Farmers are constantly injuring their eyes with pieces of rock or iron, usually when working on machinery. Pounding the rim of a tire on a dolly block is a choice method of inviting a piece of steel to lodge in the eyeball. Scratches from twigs and sharp ends of straw may have very serious results, since they are likely also to carry infection. There are no safety councils to regulate the activities of farmers, but if they themselves realized the frequency of eye casualties more of them would wear goggles when engaged on certain jobs.

Another place where eyes are hurt frequently is the home. The causes include dangerous chemicals such as lye, caustic soda, and ammonia left where children can find them or used carelessly by adults. A small splash of strong lye or ammonia may easily bring about the loss of an eye. These chemicals should be labeled conspicuously "Poison," and kept on shelves well out of the reach of children.

With an injury of this type the most important thing to do is to wash the eyes promptly with clean water. There is no time to think of neutralizing the chemical or of calling the doctor before this first aid is administered. A child must be held firmly and the lids opened widely with the fingers wrapped in a cloth or cotton, so that the eyes can be thoroughly rinsed despite the youngster's mistaken efforts to protect himself. Then a physician should be called to determine the extent of the damage and to make sure that none of the chemical has remained. Proper neutralizing solutions and protection can then be prescribed.

The use of various cosmetics endangers eyesight. Among these are certain chemicals used to dye the lashes. There are persons who possess an idiosyncrasy to these substances, experiencing intense irritation of the lids and sometimes loss of the cornea [the window of the eye]. A preparation occasionally used for the purpose of removing hair from the body contains thallium, a very dangerous chemical which is utilized routinely in rat poison. If this has been absorbed through the skin it may cause irreparable damake to the optic nerve.

Among the drugs employed to reduce excessive weight some have a peculiar effect upon the crystaline lens of the eye, especially dinitrophenol. Many cases of cataract have recently been reported in women—some as young as 18 years of age—who have taken this compound in order to lose weight. The ingredient was, and probably still is, included in a number of proprietary remedies advertised for the relief of obesity.

LOSS OF SMELL.

M. J. writes: As far back as I can remember I have not had a sense of smell. Is there any cure? I am 19 years old.

REPLY.

Loss of sense of smell may be caused by conditions which block the lower part of the nose and produce a swollen [edematous] state of the mucous membrane in which the olfactory [smelling] nerves end. Polyps and chronic inflammation may be responsible. Certain drugs, such as carbolic acid, destroy nerve filaments, and irrigating the nose with some carbolic lotion has been known to produce the symptom. Influenza or even a severe cold in the head may damage the lining cells. Injuries to the brain and fractures of the skull involving the olfactory nerves should be considered. Treatment depends on the cause; if obstruction is present, removal of the polyps, inflammation, etc., will aid recovery even though the sense of smell has been absent for some time. When the defect is due to injury of the nerves little can be done.

SYDNEY, Australia. — Australia may have a decimal coinage if one recommendation of the royal commission on banking is accepted. A point made is that decimal coinage is the currency of many British countries—Canada, Newfoundland, Hongkong, and the Straits Settlements.

South Africa and New Zealand are the only dominions which have the same coinage system as Australia. The Indian system is distinct from all.

Under the scheme suggested by the commission the pound would be divided into units of a farthing, but, instead of 960 parts, as at present, the figure would be 1,000 to the pound. Arguments for this system include the greater ease of calculation and the increased facility of dealing with America and the east.

The leading recommendation of the report is that the reserve and security trading by sections of the Commonwealth bank be separated.

Legislation to provide for a stockbrokers' fidelity fund and for compulsory audit of stockbrokers' accounts will be introduced by the New South Wales state government. A fund of £20,000 [$80,000] is proposed, from which defaults by any member of the stock exchange will be made good. Unpaid debts between brokers will not be made a charge on the fund, which is designed to protect the public.

In the event of the fund being insufficient to meet claims, it is proposed that members of the stock exchange be subject to a levy of not less than $160 each.

The fund will be managed by a committee of the stock exchange. It is suggested that claims be limited to $20,000 in regard to an individual broker, and $40,000 for a firm.

The Victorian government has also decided to provide some measure of control of the Melbourne Stock exchange, and to control the activities of investment trust companies. These moves follow the recent failures of stockbrokers to meet their obligations.

The New South Wales government is also preparing legislation to place real estate agents and stock and station agents on the same footing as business agents in regard to licensing and the provision of security. Auctioneers already are licensed, but it is proposed that they, too, should be asked to find fidelity bonds.

"The government is determined that, where people in the course of their business hold large trust funds, those trust funds shall be safeguarded," Minister for Justice Martin told a deputation from the Real Estate Agents' association.

SHARING ESTATE.

Chicago, Aug. 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Mrs. W, with four children by a former marriage, married Mr. T and had three children. Mrs. T died in 1932 and Mr. T died in 1933. They left a will stating all should share equally. Two of the children owed money.

1. Do they have to pay interest on the money to the estate?
2. Can property be sold without all signatures?
3. One child didn't agree to the sale.
4. If one of the wife's husbands left his wife for 17 months and then got together again can she bring suit against the estate for the weekly pay of $35 a week he gave his mother for nonsupport? At the time the will was read all seven children were living. In 1935 one of the three children of Mr. and Mrs. T died, his wife having died before him.
5. Does his estate still get his share? His estate went to the other two children, his half-brother and sisters being ruled out. Now, if the estate is sold at auction, the auction bringing in $5,000 and the debts being $6,500 [6] will the two heirs be compelled to square the bills?
7. Can insurance be cashed in without one heir knowing about it? Two of the children, through the first marriage, are past 60, and on both sides no children or kin only the two through the first marriage and the two children through the second marriage.
8. Can the children of the second marriage be ruled out of their estate?

C. T.

1. Yes, if they would have had to pay interest to the deceased. In other words, it depends on the agreement.
2. Not without special court proceedings.
3. Where owners of undivided interests in real estate cannot agree any one of them is entitled to force a division or a public sale by partition proceedings. The cost of such proceedings, including the complainant's solicitor's fees, are chargeable against the proceeds of sale.
4. We do not understand your facts in this connection.
5. If, as seems probable, the mother's will and the father's will were so worded as to give vested interests to the children, then these interests would descend upon subsequent death of the children to the heirs of the children so dying.
6. Your facts are not clear to us.
7. If the insurance policy is so worded as to be payable to the remaining beneficiary, then the heirs as such would not have anything to do with it.
8. If the parents left wills then the wording of those wills would control.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

WORDING OF WILL.

Cicero, Ill., Aug. 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Miss S was adopted when 12 years old and has always worked out in the field like a man. Now, since the father passed away, the other children feel that she has no right to the estate even though her name was mentioned in the will. She was willed $4,000 and the other children were willed a certain amount, but the estate left by the father is valued at only $4,000 now.

1. What will she be entitled to?
2. Can she put in her bill for working and taking care of the father until his death?

B. J.

1. We see no reason why she should not receive the full amount given her by the will. If the dispute is based on obscurities in the wording, we should have the wording before us.
2. Depends on the understanding when these services were rendered.

THE MODERN STUFFED FISH.

Chicago, Aug. 13.—While we appreciate the facetious vein in which your editorial "The Problem Muskie" was written, perhaps it would be well in the future for the writer to acquaint himself with facts.

There is no better sport than a dyed in the wool fisherman. He fishes for thrill, not quantity, and returns to the waters all fish excepting those to be used for immediate consumption. The meat from the "prize catch" presents no problem. It is distributed to a few friends, and, like as not, there isn't enough to go around.

Modern taxidermy is no backwoods trade. It has moved along with the modern trend, and a mounted fish today is truly a commendable piece of work. It does not crack, lose its scales or luster, and if it is given the same care one would give a fine piece of furniture, it retains its luster and beauty indefinitly and remains an object of beauty.

Perhaps as many women as men have their trophies mounted. The trophies retain their place of prominence in the home, the office, or the club. If they were allowed to collect dust, it's not due to faulty construction, but rather to slovenly housekeeping. R. M. AHREN.

THE PARK CONCERTS.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—As one of the thousands of music loving fans in Chicago, the writer desires to extend his sincere appreciation to the president and commissioners of the Chicago park district for the wonderful series of band concerts offered the public nightly in Grant park.

Critics who ridicule the park board as well as the quality of concert music on mere trivialities show anything but good taste. The bandmaster in a public park must necessarily cater to the uninitiated in music as well as those of the elect. He must offer compositions which some no doubt consider crude, otherwise he would be accused of catering to class distinctions.

Band music does more than merely soothe savage breasts. It helps to allay thoughts of industrial strife in civilized breasts as well, when for a few hours at night we bury the hammer and listen to the works of the composers as expressed by park concerts. Here's where the man on the street gets a break by having access to a band concert without charge, for even though he contributes his share in the form of taxes to maintain public institutions, he is rewarded two-fold in legitimate pleasure and entertainment by the park concerts. J. J. LONG.

ON PROFIT-SHARING.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—It seems to me that the successful result of the Joslyn Manufacturing company's employés profit-sharing plan, as outlined in today's financial news, is worthy of an editorial by you.

Those of us who believe in enlightened capitalism as the real solution of our economic troubles and want our country to take the lead, have here a concrete illustration as to how it can be done.

It seems to me it has communism backed off the map.

THE SMALL COLLEGES.

River Forest, Ill., Aug. 12.—Mr. Kinsley's observations about the characteristics of the small colleges will be educational to parents who are seeking such information. His comments have been expressed in an informative as well as educational manner, in keeping with his masterful style of reporting.

I hope that Mr. Kinsley's commentaries on the small colleges will be combined into a pamphlet for distribution through your public service offices. J. B. SHAY.

BIAS.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—I have just come to Chicago for a visit, and in reading your paper I am amazed at the gross bias in your news reporting.

Under date of Aug. 6 from Washington, D. C., your story about the new housing bill that the senate had just passed contained the following sentence: "Senator Wagner, one of the most powerful forces in the Roosevelt administration, was broken hearted by his failure to get away with a scheme, denounced by some of his colleagues as a bold and fraudulent raid on the treasury, to build $7,000 homes for New York slum dwellers and let the government subsidize the rent." You say Senator Wagner attempted "to get away with a scheme." Now that is not a fact; it is merely the opinion of a few opponents of the bill. Your description of the bill as a "bold and fraudulent raid on the treasury" you designate as the opinion of the opponents of the bill. But that is one viewpoint. How about the opinions of housing authorities and others who have supported the bill? The reader is left to infer that the Wagner housing bill is a "bold and fraudulent raid on the treasury" in fact.

Another example: A dispatch from Washington, D. C., dated Aug. 7, announcing the passing by the senate of a bill providing for a census of the unemployed contains the following passage—"Hopkins opposes a genuine census, according to some Democratic senators, because he wants to exaggerate the problem of unemployment." Here, too, you infer that the opinion held by a few persons is a fact. And then you say in the next sentence, "Senator Josiah W. Bailey charged during the debate on the 1937 relief bill that Hopkins' objective was not the relief of persons in need but the redistribution of wealth. Hopkins himself has said this." Hopkins has said what? That his objective was not the relief of persons in need but the redistribution of wealth? You know that is not a fact and yet you present it as one.

Another instance: In a dispatch from Washington, D. C., dated Aug. 7, commenting on the possibility that President Roosevelt might consider a third term, you cite the following as one of the reasons why he might run again—"The country, for example, might be threatened with Fascism or some other sort of dictatorship, compared with which Roosevelt regimentation would appear preferable." You are aware, of course, that in an election held a few months ago, after the country had experienced four years of what you call "Roosevelt regimentation," the people voted overwhelming approval of this regimentation and asked for four more years of it. And they were not frightened by the threat of Fascism either.

Under date of Aug. 7, discussing the future of John L. Lewis and the C. I. O., you say—"The United Automobile Workers, a C. I. O. affiliate, does not represent 20 per cent of the workers in General Motors plants, according to plant officials. Such a minority would not be sufficient to maintain a strike." Here you accept the statement of the plant officials, who, of course, are without prejudice, as a fact and present it as such. The fact that the union representatives may claim a larger percentage of the workers apparently does not interest you. W. P. CAMPBELL.

CLARIFYING AMENDMENT.

Chicago, July 31.—I have a better idea: If they want it to commemorate F. D. R., just name Roosevelt road "Dictator road" and no one can help but know which one is meant. A. G. B.

NAZIS PACK CITY; CATHOLICS HAVE TO CANCEL FETE

Speyer Streets Jammed by 100,000 Hitlerites.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SPEYER, Germany, Aug. 15.—When 100,000 Nazis, half of them in the uniforms of Storm Troopers, the Schutz Staffel and the Hitler youth organization, poured into Speyer, Catholic church dignitaries today canceled all festivities they had planned for Assumption day of the Holy Virgin.

Roman Catholics of the region and pilgrims were to have paid homage to their 75 year old bishop, Dr. Ludwig Sebastian, today being the twentieth anniversary of his consecration in Speyer.

Bishops from neighboring districts who had come to take part in the ceremonies left Speyer last night when the Nazis started pouring into town in trucks and by special trains. The Nazis had been called together by Hans Buerckel, governor of the Saar and Palatinate, and packed this small town of 28,000 inhabitants.

Speaks on "Render Unto Caesar."

When Gov. Buerckel stepped forth on the balcony of his official residence facing the beautiful old cathedral, the Nazis formed a solid mass in the square, in the main street, and in the side streets, where his words poured forth from huge loud speakers.

Gov. Buerckel used as the text of his address the quotation "Render unto Caesar that which is Caesar's and unto God that which is God's." This was displayed on a huge white streamer placed in the square.

"The Nazi party is not fighting the Catholic church," Buerckel declared. "We are only doing the will of the majority of Germans by fighting the Democratic Center [Catholic] party, which still has a strong hold on the clergymen."

Praises Hitler's Fervor.

He charged that churchmen who failed to bow to Nazi rule have "made a pact with the devil, that is to say bolshevism."

"Today," he added, "the devil is frequently ringing bells in the Catholic churches. During the holy services the priests ask the congregation not to persecute their enemies, but in private these same clergymen try to undermine the Nazi régime by slandering it in foreign countries."

Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler is the one who shows real religiosity in Germany, Buerckel declared, because he "freed the country of unemployment, prevented political disaster, and rebuilt the country's military power."

In the Protestant Confessional [Evangelical Lutheran] churches it was revealed after today's services that more than eighty Confessional pastors and their helpers now are in prison. Twenty-five Confessional pastors are forbidden to speak in public anywhere in Germany, while twenty-nine have been ousted from their parishes.

Missing from Home

BEATRICE MANTANES.

Increased anxiety was felt yesterday for the safety of Miss Beatrice Mantanes, whose 16th birthday is next Friday, who has been missing since last Wednesday morning. Beatrice, who lives at 3551 Southport avenue, walked out of the ice cream parlor at 3537 Southport avenue, where she works, to buy some fruit at a nearby grocery. That was the last her parents, Louis Mantanes, a shoe repair man, and his wife, Mary, have heard of her, despite a search by Town Hall police.

Beatrice, a blonde, was wearing a pink print smock and white sandals when she disappeared. Her parents said she had been looking forward eagerly to her birthday party planned for Friday. The girl attended the Lake View High school.

REBELS SEIZE 35 TOWNS IN SWEEP OF NORTH SPAIN

Push Near Outer Defense Line of Santander.

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The red and gold flag of rebel Spain today was carried within sight of Reinosa, important city of Santander province, as Gen. Francisco Franco's north coast offensive continued successfully through its second day.

Rebel dispatches said thirty-five villages had fallen and over 1,000 prisoners been captured in the advance, designed to clean up the last vestiges of government territory and power in the northwest, with the city of Santander as chief prize.

Two Columns on Move.

Two columns were driving on Santander from Palencia and Burgos provinces, and the advance guards of one were reported approaching Reinosa, some forty miles south-southwest of Santander and for the last year a keypoint in the defense of Santander province.

Without serious resistance the column pushing northward on the Burgos-Santander road had advanced 10 miles and that on the Palencia-Reinosa road 7 miles since the big drive began yesterday, the rebels reported.

A third rebel column was held inactive on the road along the Bay of Biscay coast, by which it had advanced westward from Bilbao. Rebel officers said it would not advance until the two southern columns were closer to Santander.

Government sources here admitted the rebels had advanced, but said they had not yet touched the main defenses of the Santander area, just in front of Reinosa. Before the war Reinosa was a prosperous manufacturing town.

Planes Play Major Part.

In this drive Gen. Franco is using the same tactics as he used to take Bilbao in June—pounding fortified positions first with bombing planes, then with artillery, then machine gunning trenches and dugouts from airplanes. Officers said that by the time the infantry advanced to seize such positions there seldom was any one left to resist.

Along both the highways toward Santander from the south Gen. Franco's men moved over wooded mountains more than 6,000 feet high.

A government radio broadcast from Santander said anti-aircraft guns had brought down a rebel plane and killed a German pilot. Others of the crew, however, were said to have parachuted to safety outside the government lines.

Try to Save Manpower.

Rebel officers at Irun said the Santander offensive was planned carefully to use as little manpower as possible so as to leave enough at the Madrid front to start a separate offensive there if necessary and to keep enough troops on the Huesca-Teruel and southern fronts to hold off any government attacks.

One officer said that the government offensive west of Madrid early in July "caught us napping and caused us to abandon the Santander offensive to send reënforcements to the Madrid front."

"That will not happen this time," he said.

Rebel authorities indicated Gen. Franco planned to take Santander and smash government resistance in the north within not more than three weeks, but officers at Irun said if the present rate of progress is maintained it could be done in ten days.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Thirty-eight men, all the crew of the Panamanian motor tanker George W. McKnight, were landed today at Goletta, on the Tunisian coast, after abandoning their blazing ship, set afire by bombardment from two unidentified torpedo boats.

Dispatches to Lloyd's said the tanker was attacked about 20 miles northwest of Cape Bon and soon was ablaze. She sent out her first distress call at 9:13 p. m. last night, and soon thereafter reported all hands were abandoning the ship, which could not be saved.

The British tanker British Commodore took off the crew and landed them. The George W. McKnight, a vessel of 7,097 tons, was bound for Le Havre, France, from Syria and Tripoli.

MADRID AND VALENCIA PERMIT MASS FOR 1ST TIME SINCE WAR BEGAN

VALENCIA, Spain, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Mass was celebrated openly here and in Madrid today for the first time in Spanish government territory since the government closed all Catholic churches at the outbreak of the civil war thirteen months ago. Manual Irujo, minister of justice, and about twenty others attended the services here. It was conducted in the third floor apartment of the Basque delegation. Irujo led the movement to obtain cabinet approval for resumption of religious ceremonies. Irujo said it would be several months before churches are opened.

CONFIDENTIAL FACTS FREE!

Send for free copy of an illustrated article by Dr. Thomas Parran, Surgeon General of the United States Public Health Service, who takes you fully into his confidence as to what syphilis is, what it does, how it is contracted, and how it can be diagnosed and cured. This article should be read by every unmarried man and woman, by every married couple, and by all young people of high school age. Sent in a plain sealed envelope on request.

THEY CAN'T MARRY

in the State of Illinois unless both are free from venereal diseases!

Proof that syphilis and gonorrhea are absent is now required to get a marriage license. Be examined by your own doctor or this clinic!

THE new state law which requires a couple to be examined for venereal diseases before marriage is intended to accomplish two highly desirable things.

First, to prevent infection of the bride by the groom, or the possible infection of the groom by the bride. Second, and more important, to reduce the appalling number of dead, deformed, blinded and feeble-minded babies that are born of venereally-diseased parents!

Considering that syphilis can be contracted innocently, and exist for years without the victim's knowledge, it is a mistake for any person to believe that he or she is not infected. Hence any attempt to evade the new marriage law is merely to invite the dreadful consequences which it is wisely designed to prevent.

Therefore, do not run the risk of having your marriage performed in another state that has lax marriage laws. Protect yourself and your children to come by submitting to the examination now required in the State of Illinois. Failure to do so may easily result in a lifetime of unhappiness and ill health!

Avoid these consequences!

Untreated syphilis, for example, may lead to fatal heart disease, blindness, deafness, apoplexy, locomotor ataxia, paralysis or even insanity! And it usually causes mothers to have stillborn or defective babies.

Untreated gonorrhea may result in a sight-destroying eye infection, sterility, stricture, crippling rheumatism, or serious prostate, bladder and other troubles. Among women it can cause infants to be blinded at birth, or necessitate mutilating pelvic operations that make having children impossible!

Thus it is apparent that the new marriage law meets a crying need. By requiring a physical examination which includes blood and other tests, it will help reduce the present high percentage of unhappy, childless marriages and encourage the birth of a much larger number of healthy, normal babies!

The necessary examination can be obtained from your family doctor, or you can get it at the Public Health Institute. The Institute is especially well qualified to make pre-marriage tests, as to date its men and women physicians have given more than 4,500,000 examinations and treatments for venereal diseases. This is a record to inspire the utmost confidence!

Examination costs $3.00

Organized by public-spirited citizens as a corporation "NOT-FOR-PROFIT" under the laws of the State of Illinois, the Public Health Institute offers attention for venereal infections at the lowest possible fees consistent with specialized treatment. An examination for syphilis and gonorrhea, including blood tests, urinalysis and smears, costs only $3.00, while some treatments for syphilis cost as little as $1.00 and some of those for gonorrhea still less!

Despite these low fees the Institute provides a friendly, personal service. Each patient is promptly attended in a private room, and to avoid embarrassment is known by a number rather than by name. The Institute's facilities are available to all, as even those who are temporarily short of funds can arrange to be cared for.

NOTE: The Public Health Institute has no connection with any other Chicago health or medical institute, and should not be confused with those operated for personal gain!

EMPLOYES JOIN WEIR IN FIGHT ON U.S. LABOR BOARD

Thousands in Rally on Eve of New Struggle.

Holliday's Cove, W. Va., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—As a prelude to Ernest T. Weir's second struggle with Roosevelt administration labor legislation, several thousand persons, employés of his Weirton Steel corporation and their friends and sympathizers, staged a rally here this afternoon to show that they shared his bitter opposition to the national labor relations board.

Gathering at the gates of the huge, sprawling mill of the company in Weirton, a throng estimated at 4,000 to 8,000 persons paraded behind brass bands to this resort where they cheered denunciations of the labor board, of John L. Lewis and of the Committee for Industrial Organization by two Democratic congressmen.

The speakers were Senator Rush D. Holt of West Virginia and Representative Arthur P. Lamneck of Columbus, O.

Notice to Labor Board.

Their demonstration was intended to serve notice on the labor board of their resentment at its action in ordering a hearing, which will open tomorrow morning at New Cumberland, W. Va., seven miles north of here, of charges that the Weirton company terrorized employés suspected of C. I. O. leanings.

Marshalled by the Weirton Steel Employés Security league and the Weir Cove Community Security league, the demonstrators marched here bearing placards containing gibes and abuse for the labor board, Lewis and the C. I. O.

In the two-mile long parade, Weirton workers marched four-abreast through the town to the grove at the city limits where Holt spoke. About 250 women, employed in the tin mill, paraded in blue uniforms. Men in the mill wore tin top hats made in the shops.

Assails Board and C. I. O.

"The national labor relations board has been just another alphabetical way to spell C. I. O.," declared Senator Holt.

"The C. I. O. wants the national laboard board to decide its cases, not on the question of right or wrong but on the campaign contributions of John L. Lewis."

Holt then accused John L. Lewis, chairman of the C. I. O., of having determined either to rule or destroy the American Federation of Labor.

"The very day that Lewis was defeated in the race for presidency of the A. F. of L.," the senator charged, "he set out in an ambitious way to either rule or destroy that organization."

San Ana, Cal., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Little Jerry Frederick Fitschen is using his own lungs now, for the first time in his life which started just three weeks ago. The child was placed in an iron lung after his birth because his own lungs failed to function. He gained strength quickly with the aid of the mechanical lungs, and now has been removed and is getting stronger every day.

LOT OF BOTHER, BUT AID TO HAY FEVER VICTIMS

Dawson, Neb., Aug. 15.—(AP)—William Stevens of Dawson explained today just how he fights hay fever sniffles and sneezes, but he said it takes determination to do it. His technique:

Wipes the floors with wet cloths.

Hangs wet sheets in the bedroom in the evening, but takes them down an hour before retiring.

Keeps the doors and the windows in the room locked, even though it's hot.

Washes the bed sheets every day.

This procedure, he said, rids the room of pollen and dust.

A. F. OF L. READY TO BATTLE C. I. O. IN 2 NEW FIELDS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor intends to start a counter attack on C. I. O. organizing efforts among agricultural and white collar workers, William Green, A. F. of L. president, announced today he would set up federation councils in both fields to correlate drives against the Committee for Industrial Organization, headed by John L. Lewis.

Green said the formation of councils—each to include representatives of all loyal locals—would be the first step toward granting A. F. of L. charters to both groups.

The office workers probably will set up their council during the A. F. of L.'s October convention in Denver, Green said. A date for the Agricultural and Packing House workers' meeting has not been set.

Radio Performers Organize.

New York, Aug. 15.—[Special.]—The American Federation of Labor's drive to organize performers in radio was launched today with the announcement that 35 stars of stage, screen, opera, and radio had accepted membership in a national board of directors for the newly formed American Federation of Radio Artists. The board will meet tomorrow to elect a president and other officers.

PAYNE CHARGES WLW MISUSING RADIO LICENSE

Calls on Owner Crosley Jr. for Explanation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—In a letter, sizzling with charges "there is something strange in Denmark" in the monopoly radio station WLW enjoys of 500 kilowatt power, George Henry Payne, federal communications commissioner, tonight called upon Powell Crosley Jr., owner of the station, to furnish the commission information on use of its experimental license.

Commissioner Payne charged that the station is abusing the experimental license to mount profits. He quoted from the Congressional Record a senate speech blasting radio monopoly and a house speech to make the point Crosley is enjoying special privilege because he has "ways of getting things done."

Snell Makes Charges.

In hurling this implication Commissioner Payne was seen as throwing down the gauntlet to the station on its recent employment of Charles Michelson, $25,000 a year publicity chieftain of the Democratic national committee, who was recently hired as a consultant by Crosley. As Michelson took a $10,000 a year salary as consultant, the commission granted WLW a six months extension of 'ts license to operate at 500 kilowatts. No other station in the country has power in excess of 50 kilowatts.

Michelson's acceptance of the radio job was fired upon by house Minority Leader Bertrand H. Snell last June 27, the day the extension was granted Station WLW. The veteran New York representative said:

"This is in line with everything else connected with the administration. They are ready to take money from both sides. The employment of the Democrats' publicity mentor would give any radio company an inside track with the administration. And you may be sure the company will expect Michelson to deliver for every dollar they pay him."

Fails to Get Information.

In his letter to Crosley, Mr. Payne recalled that when the former was a witness at the informal engineering conference of the commission he [Payne] asked questions designed to bring out information on the monopoly Crosley holds.

"It seems now, as it seemed then, that there is no great secret about the fact that instead of this experimental license being used for scientific research, it is being used simply as a means of earning unusual commercial profits," the letter states.

At the time Payne said Crosley promised to supply information sought later. On Nov. 30, 1936, Payne said his office called attention to the fact the information had not been received.

FINDS EVIDENCE OF HEREDITY IN APPENDIX ILLS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Appendicitis, one of the commonest human troubles requiring surgical treatment, is apparently a hereditary disease, a midwestern scientist reported today.

E. G. Stanley Baker of Wabash college, Crawfordsville, Ind., announced in the Journal of Heredity that he had found that infection of the appendix, resulting in inflammation, soreness, and rupture, "runs in families."

He found it running through four generations of one family, in which twelve cases occurred. A second appendicitis susceptible family was found "without any especial searching," he added, and a third was reported to the journal simultaneously.

Clarence Porter Funeral Services Will Be Today

Funeral services for Clarence W. Porter, 44 years old, 719 Ashland avenue, River Forest, will be conducted at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the chapel at 318 North Central avenue, with burial in Mount Emblem cemetery. Mr. Porter, vice president of Stanley Pflaum associates, advertising agency, died Saturday in the Three Rivers hospital, Three Rivers, Mich., after being stricken by appendicitis while on a week-end trip there recently. He leaves, in addition to his widow, Sadie Gaylord Porter, his parents, Charles H. and Emily Porter of Chicago, a daughter, Barbara, and a son Ralph, of River Forest. Mr. Porter formerly was connected with the Lavesen & Salomon Advertising agency in Chicago.

Gagged and Bound, Man Found Dead of Auto Gas

Colorado Springs, Colo., Aug. 15.—(AP)—A gag in his mouth and his hands and feet tied, Ralph H. Ramsey, 35 years old, Oklahoma City oil company employé, was found dead today at the rear of his automobile. Examination disclosed he died of carbon monoxide gas poisoning. Whether suicide or murder was not determined.

FOOD HANDLERS JOIN CAMPAIGN TO END SYPHILIS

Cooks' Union Pledges Fight Against Disease.

Chicago's organized food handlers in the Cooks' and Pastry Cooks' union, local No. 88, yesterday threw their support to the city's campaign to stamp out syphilis.

Gaston A. Ramant and D. W. Werdebaugh, business manager and financial secretary of the union, informed Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the city board of health, that the union's executive board has taken action in regard to the campaign.

"In behalf of several thousand men and women, we are sending our full endorsement of your program," their letter said. "We feel that we, the food handlers who are catering to the general public, should be the first to lead such a move."

Schmidt Hails Pledge.

Dr. Bundesen and Dr. Louis E. Schmidt, chairman of Mayor Kelly's committee on the control of venereal disease, regarded the pledge as most important.

"There is no city or state law requiring food handlers to be examined for syphilis," said Dr. Schmidt, who is in charge of the campaign for the city and the United States public health service. "If the union members voluntarily submit to tests it will enable us to close up any sources of possible infection in this vital group."

Several leading hotels require all employés engaged in handling food to take examinations showing they are free from venereal disease.

Bill Dies in Legislature.

The Sturdyvin bill, introduced at the last session of the legislature, would require annual examinations for communicable diseases and a certification of health by public authorities for all employés of restaurants or taverns. The measure died after it was advanced to passage, apparently from lack of interest rather than from active opposition.

With 50,000 replies showing the public favors free and secret blood tests, campaign leaders said the final 350,000 questionnaires will be mailed this week. Already 650,000 ballots are in the hands of the public. A ratio of 16 to 1 prevails in favor of the tests, according to ballots received thus far.

DEDICATE CHAPEL NEAR LONDON TO U. S. WAR DEAD

BROOKWOOD, England, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The only American war cemetery and memorial chapel in England were dedicated today in the presence of U. S. Ambassador Robert W. Bingham and members of the British cabinet.

Alfred Duff Cooper, first lord of the admiralty, made a gesture of friendship to Germany, pleading for a "new coöperation" among nations.

"The shroud of glory the war dead wove is broad enough to cover both victors and vanquished," he said.

Strains of the Star Spangled Banner echoed across the English woodland, 28 miles from London and last resting place of 568 American soldiers and sailors who served in the world war, as the dedication drew to its close. British soldiers fired volleys over the graves. Robert G. Woodside, vice president of the American battle monuments commission, made the address.

15,000 MARCH IN MICHIGAN AVE. EAGLES' PARADE

The 39th annual convention of the Fraternal Order of Eagles came to a climax yesterday afternoon with a parade in which 15,000 delegates and guests marched down Michigan avenue from Wacker drive to Roosevelt road. Bands, drum and bugle corps and drill units continued to the Field museum for a contest review.

Earlier in the day John W. Heller Jr., of York, Pa., was elected grand worthy president, succeeding Dr. H. B. Mehrmann, of Oakland, Cal.

MARY PICKFORD HOPES TO SELL DREAM HOUSE

Beverly Hills, Cal., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Pickfair, Mary Pickford's one time "dream house," will be offered for sale within a month.

In 1920 Douglas Fairbanks bought the hilltop place, then a hunting lodge and rebuilt it as a honeymoon house for Miss Pickford.

In the decade in which the famous film couple lived there they were visited by many of the world's celebrities.

In 1930 Fairbanks was seized with a wanderlust that took him to the world's far places and by 1933 they had separated. When they were divorced in 1935, Pickfair went to Miss Pickford.

Yachts Race This Week on Three Lakes

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE current week will be of especial interest to yachting circles at three different localities. Two sailing events, the Great Lakes star class championships and the annual race week, are being held at the Sheridan Shore Yacht club at Wilmette harbor.

The Inland Lakes Yachting association regatta is claiming the attention of members of the fourteen associated clubs at the Lake Geneva Yacht club at Lake Geneva, Wis. The Charlevoix Yacht club is sponsoring a series of eight races to determine the winner of the "one design" championship. The races are held on Lake Charlevoix, Mich.

Star class sailing craft from every fleet on the Great Lakes will compete today, tomorrow, Wednesday, and Thursday mornings off Wilmette harbor, in what is one of the most exciting yachting events on the lakes. The championships are held each year at the home club of the preceding year's winning skipper, and the Sheridan Shore owes the presence of the visiting boats to Lockwood Pirie's success in this event last year at St. Joseph, Mich.

Race week program events are scheduled for afternoons. An especial guest of the club, in addition to all of the visiting skippers and crews, is Commodore George Corry of Port Washington, N. Y., who originated the star class type boat and who still sails Star No. 1.

Parties for Club Members and Guests.

The week will not be entirely devoted to sailing, however, for W. Burton Ellis, as chairman of the entertainment committee, has arranged several jolly parties for the club members and their guests. There was a buffet supper at the club last night, and tonight Mr. and Mrs. Howard Jones will have about 150 for a buffet supper at their Evanston home.

Mrs. Charles E. Galloway, chairman of the woman's auxiliary of the club, is assisting Mr. Ellis with the entertaining. She and Dr. Galloway have invited the same large group to a lawn party and corn roast at their home in Private road, Winnetka, Wednesday night. Miss Gertrude Galloway, a debutante of the coming season, her brother, Edward, who is sailing in the competitions, and their house guest, Miss Mary Elisabeth Barber of Greeley, Colo., will help Mrs. Galloway with the party.

There will be a dance at the club on Friday night, and the following night the two events will be concluded with a banquet at which prizes will be awarded. Mr. Ellis will be sailing in the races with Samuel Goss.

Others from the Sheridan Shore entered in the events are Wesley Bowman, Theodore Mead, Albert Bingham, Arthur Bradbury, Clive Jenkins, and Emerson Raymond. Feminine skippers will be allowed to share the racing spotlight next week in women's racing events.

View Charlevoix Races from Chicago Club.

From the Chicago club at Charlevoix summer residents may watch in comfort the graceful craft entered in the local yacht club competitions. Albert Keep won the first of the season's series of races last week in his Ojibway. Mr. and Mrs. John I. Shaw of Winnetka have taken a cottage at the Chicago club grounds for the next few weeks. Miss Evelyn Bouscaren, who played last week in the Western tennis tournament at Harbor Point, will be the Shaws' guest while she plays in the Charlevoix tournament.

John P. Wilson's sister, Mrs. William R. Dickson of Santa Barbara, Cal., and Mr. Dickinson and their son, William Jr., are guests at the Wilson cottage.

300 Yachting Visitors to Throng Lake Geneva.

At least 300 visiting yachtsmen and their wives and friends will throng Lake Geneva this week for the Inland Lakes regatta, and every hotel and many of the homes on the lake will be filled to capacity. In fact, the housing shortage is such that a number of the younger skippers will camp out in tents on the grounds of the Lake Geneva Yacht club. There are 134 entries in the regatta, making it the largest in the history of the event.

A. F. Gartz, commodore of the Lake Geneva Yacht club, and Mrs. Gartz are keeping open house throughout the week, and a buffet luncheon will be served to all comers every day from 11 until 2 o'clock. Miss Gloria Gartz, their elder daughter, is sailing with her father in his A-boat, leaving the sailing of her own C-boat to a friend from Delavan lake.

Miss Barbara Buchanan, daughter of the De Witt Buchanans, will be another of the girls taking part in the regatta. She is coming from Oconomowoc to sail her own C-boat, and will stay with the Gartzes. Mrs. Gartz is planning to follow the races in her new motor launch, the Aunt

Seeress Links Film Beauties with Flowers

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

There is something engaging as a pastime in associating pretty, colorful, gay, and charming women with flowers. You can let loose in this game, too, and be fairly catty when you come to one who might suggest a prickly cactus, a practical zinnia or marigold, or an ineffectual little bloom without scent or color. Only we suggest that you'd better stick to the nice association of girl and flower and let it go at that.

Apropos, Sandra, Cinemaland seeress, says each feminine star of the screen has a counterpart in the floral kingdom, and her personality may be translated into its harmonizing bloom.

According to the seeress' interpretation of this floral science, Ginger Rogers' personality is symbolized by a deep, golden-yellow rose, with brilliant green leaves.

Katharine Hepburn's aura resolves itself into a bronze chrysanthemum.

Orchids harmonize with the personality of Dolores del Rio.

Francis Dee comes to the crystal, according to Sandra, as violets with newly fallen dew on their petals.

Now, you can go on from there without the crystal ball. You can think up a flower for Joan Crawford, Claudette Colbert, Carole Lombard, the great Garbo, or some special favorite of your very own.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

A tooth brush in a travel kit is our idea of an offering that's plenty sensible. We've had some before, of course—but there's a new one on the market that tops them all for efficiency and attractiveness.

The container is a case no more than three and a half inches long; inside it is the head of a tooth brush—and a good one—which screws onto the top of the case, thereby providing you with a toothbrush of the average length. The case is a small container for the brush and also serves as a handle for it. When you've finished using the brush, you merely unscrew it and tuck it back into the container, which has an open tip for ventilation.

The little light weight cases are available in six colors; the brush heads are clear crystal. The brush itself is of excellent quality—its name is famous just about all over the civilized world—and you may take your choice of medium or hard bristles.

You'll find these excellent brushes in their compact case in a great many of the shops; the price is truly reasonable. If you have to travel frequently or have the week-ending habit you should own one.

Campus Clothes Make Exciting Fashion News

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Excitement around the stores and shops the next few weeks will center at the college clothes collections. Officially this week marks the opening of all the haunts of college going crowds, especially the freshmen with an important first impression to make.

Sweaters and skirts are still star attractions, but there are lots of rebellious shoppers buying smart, slim skirts and fitted tailored jackets. Skirts that do not require much pressing are the big favorites, with the umbrella flared affairs going fast. Scotch plaid will breeze about all colleges in blouses, jackets, skirts, or entire dresses.

Two piece suits, the slick simple things of skirt and fitted belted jacket with clever details and pockets and long sleeves, come in knockout colors and combines and are made of soft feminine woolen fabrics that promise lots of wear and service.

Suede jackets and matched skull caps are pet duets for any wardrobe. Swanky topcoats, with or without fur collars, have deep pockets, a full backline, and stunning big buttons. Reefer coats, fitted and flared, compete with longish box coats for favor.

Party clothes destined for college bound trunks deserve a column all by themselves, for they're exciting this fall and are rated second only to the bewildering collection of gloves, trick costume gadgets, scarfs, belts, and the like that make the individual co-ed a personality in any campus parade.

Hear Brahms, Wagner Music in Grant Park

BY CECIL SMITH.

Having emerged decisively defeated from Saturday night's competition with the military show at nearby Soldier field, Hans Lange and the Chicago Symphony orchestra wisely deferred the beginning of last night's free Grant park concert from the usual 8 o'clock to 8:30. During this unexpected delay innumerable airplanes flew overhead, now in formations, now in a long single line, wheeling and dipping, roaring and zooming, and generally striking terror in the hearts of many landlubbers who had come to Grant park for peaceful aesthetic reasons.

Finally the airplanes went off to some remote nest to the southward, and the concert was able to get under way with Wagner's overture to "The Flying Dutchman." This I did not hear well, for my ears still rang with the drone of the air squadron. I felt uncomfortably nearer to the international settlement in Shanghai than to the trackless wastes of ocean Wagner sought to suggest.

Perhaps it was not Mr. Lange's fault, therefore, that the first symphony of Brahms, which followed, did not always seem conclusive. Often he seemed to press the music too hard, neglecting to let phrases and sections come to rest with a sense of resolution. The sweet-tempered third movement and the climatic last half of the finale seemed confined in a musical straight-jacket. The symphony was effective in orchestral sound, but seldom eloquent in musical discourse.

Omitting the usual intermission, the orchestra continued with Eric DeLamarter's successful reorchestration of excerpts from Rameau's opera "Dardanus," Chabrier's "España," and the waltz, "Du und Du," from Johann Strauss' "Die Fledermaus." The Rameau suite was beautifully and understandingly played, and the two closing items finished off the program in a mood of gayety.

The program:

Overture to "The Marriage of Figaro" ..... Mozart
Siegfried's Rhine Journey, from "The Twilight of the Gods" ..... Wagner
"Il mio tesoro," from "Don Giovanni" ..... Mozart
Tito Schipa.
"M'apparì," from "Martha" ..... Flotow
Tito Schipa.
Symphonic Poem, "In the Tatra Mountains" ..... Zelenski
[First time in Chicago.]
Four Oriental Sketches ..... Paulsen
Rhapsody, "Italia" ..... Casella
"Una furtiva lagrima," from "L'Elisir d'Amour" ..... Donizetti
Tito Schipa.
Intermezzo, from "Cavalleria Rusticana" ..... Mascagni
Fantasy, "A Night on the Bare Mountain" ..... Moussorgsky

The Chicago Symphony orchestra will return for four more concerts on Aug. 26, 27, 28, and 29.

Front Views and Profiles

OVER the week-end the water of Little Traverse bay was bluer than any artist could paint it, and the air was as fresh and invigorating as that of Switzerland.

Michigan Woods—Rimes.

Saturday morning a charming white haired neighbor who knows woodland lore as some women know bridge hands brought me a bouquet from the woods. I repeated the names of the plants after her: Clintonia, twisted stalk, Solomon's Seal, and false spikenard. The Clintonia had deep purple-blue berries, and the twisted stalk scarlet ones. Hanging underneath the graceful length of the Solomon's Seal were blue-green berries under a kind of film that made the color look like changeable taffeta.

WE drove down the shore road and Old Trail road to see the enchanting Swedish cottage of a new acquaintance in a clearing on a bluff overlooking the bay, surrounded by great pines and the white birch that the Indians call the swamp angel. Zack, their brindle Great Dane, who was brought north in a small trailer attached to their car, had been a hero that day. Two young women had started down the ravine path to the beach when Zack suddenly had blocked their progress with his great body. He had refused to let them pass. And ahead of them in the path, they saw a coiled rattlesnake. Zack is nine months old, and it is his first trip to the woods.

AT luncheon time, the veranda of the Little Harbor club overlooking the yacht-filled harbor, was filled with summer visitors who drifted into the boxes built above the tennis courts after luncheon to watch the western championship tennis finals. Rambler roses climb the netting that encloses the courts; blue spruce trees form a background for the pool, with purple and white petunias in the foreground, and green lawns stretch to the beach and the water's edge. A gem of a small club—its pool, its tennis courts, and its charming lounges are constantly filled with youngsters and their elders.

EVEN up in the north woods we were opening letters, brought along from Chicago, that proved to contain more counting-out rimes, remembered from readers' childhood days. Sylvia Dordick, the girl who learned, to her astonishment after she was grown up, that the "Ully, ully, unchum free" she shouted with the rest of the kids in her block really was, "All the little urchins free," had lots of company in her childish miscomprehension of the words.

"If Sylvia Dordick had lived out here in our neighborhod," writes Nadia Mosberg from Hammond, "she'd have hollered, 'Olly, olly, arch on free!' The correct original is 'All, ye, all ye urchins free!'"

On Chicago's south side streets the cry was, "Orly, orly, ornts on free!" bulletins Helen L. Herbold. Anne Kerr's neighborhood translated it as "Olie, olie Olson free!" In Jean Guertler's street it was "Oley, oley, Olson free." And in other neighborhoods it was "Olie, olie, oxen free," and "Olle, olle, o-chin free."

BY ANNA NANGLE.

Strangely enough, there's no riddle in the title of this movie. Much of the action takes place in the big prison after which the film is named, and the routine and organization of such an institution provide the chief interest of the picture.

Shots of the prison yard, the guard houses, and the cells seem to be authentic, at least enough so to make one decide that San Quentin is not like a hotel except that you get room and board. It's the extra features they throw in that make it uncomfortable.

The story concerns a cocky young fellow who progressed from a trouble-making kid into a real criminal and graduated from the reform school to prison. As is true in actual cases, relatives who love him suffer as much or more than he.

A trained army man has been sent to the prison to try his form of discipline, and said officer's interest in the kid's sister causes complications. A stupid guard, brutal and disgruntled, undoes all the good that understanding, fair treatment can do the young convict.

As you may guess, Humphrey Bogart plays the criminal, "Red" Kennedy, and he's right at home in such a rôle. Pat O'Brien is likable and natural as Capt. Stephen Jameson. As May Kennedy, Ann Sheridan is not required to do much.

The subject has a morbid attraction and the film has a few tense moments. I thought the ending too melodramatic to be convincing. Photography throughout is striking, particularly the scenes within the prison walls.

Dialog is terse and unaffected, and the direction intelligent. With a plot of more stamina, "San Quentin" could have been a fine picture.

Actors Assert Women Form Best Audiences

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Robert Montgomery, Rosalind Russell, Robert Benchley, and Helen Vinson were chatting on the set of "Live, Love, and Learn" at Metro studio, and, strange as it may seem to readers outside of Hollywood, the topic under discussion was not love, which few here actually talk about, but audiences.

Rosalind Russell

The audience, that big, sometimes "soft" sometimes hard-boiled, and sometimes perverse mass of people that accepts or rejects movies, is always a number one consideration to players such as Montgomery, Miss Russell and Benchley, who do their professional work with their thought currents turned on.

"What kind of an audience goes for comedy? What kind, have you determined, likes comedy best?" Montgomery demands of Benchley.

"I'd say a large audience," Benchley responds. Montgomery, Russell, and Vinson laugh appreciatively because Benchley gets off so many fast cracks that they chuckle first and catch the point second, sometimes.

But Benchley's face is grave. "I didn't say that for a laugh," he interrupts. "I'm really not kidding. It's much easier to play drama in front of a small audience than it is to play comedy to a half full house.

"People are a little uneasy about laughing out loud unless they are packed in a crowd. They are afraid—at least I am—of being caught in the midst of a loud burst of merriment while others are silent."

"When you were a dramatic critic—on full time—you must have bumped into the difference between audiences almost at the start of your reviewing career," Montgomery remarks to Benchley.

"He means the difference between an audience largely made up of women and one where men predominate," Miss Russell cuts in.

"They seem to get the magic of the theater more quickly," Montgomery agrees. "The opening curtain transports most women into the realm in which the play is laid. With men the process is not so sure or so fast. Once you capture a female audience, it is very hard to lose it. The women are as resentful as the actors of any occurrence which interrupts the play. Men snap out of the dramatic spell quite easily."

"And of course, young people make fine audiences," Miss Vinson says. "And elderly people—men or women—seem only too happy to abandon scenes and cares of everyday life."

"Find This Girl"

BY ROY VICKERS [Copyright: 1937: By Roy Vickers.]

SYNOPSIS.

Bessie Merwand, a nurse, is acquitted of the charge of administering a fatal dose of medinal to an elderly patient. Gwynneth Bentley and her lover, Roy Gleason, attended the trial. Later Gwynneth meets Bessie, who has changed her name to Mathews, and, waiving references, gives her a job caring for Gwynneth's invalid husband. She plans to kill her husband and plant the guilt on Bessie. Medinal tablets for Gwynneth's sleeplessness are placed in Bessie's charge. Gwynneth hides a valuable jeweled dagger, then puts the ground tablets in her husband's food.

INSTALMENT VII.

A CRIME PLANNED.

"He's getting suspicious, Roy—and we've got to put him off," she said earnestly. "You always look at me too much. When he's about keep your eyes on the girl."

"This kind of thing can't go on," he said wretchedly.

For an instant there came to her the fear of losing him. And the fear drove her to the very edge of caution.

"It isn't going on," she said quickly. And as he looked surprised: "You told me in fun once that you thought I had a sixth sense. Well, there's just a little bit of truth in it. I feel in my bones that all this dreadful deceitfulness—which I hate as much as you do—is about to end. Very quickly. Just play up a little longer, Roy, and I promise you it'll be all right. And now don't let any of the servants see us together. Keep out of my way."

That night she drew another medinal tablet from Bessie. As usual she locked it in her jewel case and counted her hoard. Twenty-two tablets. One tablet was the ordinary dose—two tablets an excessive dose. Eleven times as much medinal as a human being could take with safety.

That afternoon she strolled alone in the garden and chatted to the two gardeners.

She contrived to send them on separate tasks that would take them out of view of the tool shed. When this had been done she slipped into the tool shed and chose a trowel.

The next thing was to take the trowel unobserved to the summer-house, which she accomplished without difficulty.

That night, shortly after 12, she stole from her room. Assured that the house was in silence, she crept down to the library.

Slowly she opened the library window. It was of the sash type and she had put a little grease there during the day. The lightest sleeper could not have heard her opening the window.

The summer-house had a brick floor and some of the bricks had worked loose. Moving in darkness she lifted one she had previously loosened. Then, with the trowel, she dug into the earth underneath, placing the soil in a newspaper.

She dug to the depth of a foot, pressed the dagger into the soil, then re-covered it. She pressed the earth down as closely as she could, then replaced the brick.

She extinguished the torch then, handling the newspaper with the utmost care, she scattered the surplus earth on the garden.

"No hitch anywhere!" she murmured as she regained the library and closed the window.

She went to her jewel case and took out the twenty-two medinal tablets. She placed them one by one on her washstand and with the handle of a hairbrush crushed each into a fine powder.

There are those who believe that all murderers must be mad. If Gwynneth Bentley was not mad in the accepted sense of the word, she was certainly dominated by the single idea of respectable marriage with Roy Gleason. She was not by nature a cruel woman, but in the pursuit of this purpose there was no place for pity. It might even be said that she had no desire to injure either her husband or Bessie. But she saw them, not as human beings whom in different ways she was about to destroy, but as instruments to her purpose.

For nearly two months her active brain had worked ceaselessly on details of her proposed crime. The vital point, she knew, was the actual administration of the poison. Any elaborate plan—any unusual occurrence of the most trivial nature—would be remembered afterward. So she based her plan on the existing routine of the house.

Every day the cook would place Mr. Bentley's lunch on an invalid hot-water plate, which she would deposit on the rack, adding a cover. Ledbourne, the parlor maid, would place the plate on a plain wooden tray and carry it to her pantry, where she would transfer it to a second tray laid with a white cloth and table silver. She would then go to the winebin, take out a half bottle of Burgundy and draw the cork. The routine was invariable. For Mr. Bentley did not like the cork drawn until the last moment.

The tray would be placed within arm's reach of the pantry window. And throughout the summer months the pantry window was invariably open. That was all Gwynneth needed.

On the next day, at a quarter to one, Gwynneth switched the telephone to the extension in the library, having previously ascertained that Bessie was upstairs.

"Is that Mr. Rendel? . . . This is Miss Mathews speaking from Uplands. Can you send up at once to take a trunk and two suitcases to the station? . . . Yes. I want them consigned to me at Waterloo Station. Do you think you could manage to put them on the three-thirty? . . . Thank you very much."

Still only ten minutes to one. Plenty of time. She went out by the open front door. In her dress was the envelope containing the powdered medinal. In her hand an ordinary table fork.

The kitchen and service quarters were built on a jutting wing. The only persons who might see her standing outside the pantry window would be the two gardeners. And it had been quite easy to prescribe tasks which would ensure their being at the far end of the kitchen garden on the opposite side of the wing.

As Ledbourne went to the winebin Gwynneth reached through the window, removed the cover, emptied the envelope containing the powdered medinal into the curry, then with the fork she carried she mixed the power with the curry so that it was not visible.

By the time she had replaced the cover, her dreadful deed accomplished, only seventeen seconds had elapsed. About as long as it took Ledbourne—out of sight some fifteen feet away—to open the bin and apply the corkscrew.

She stood by the door, listening—heard Ledbourne come into the hall, and ascend the stairs with the tray.

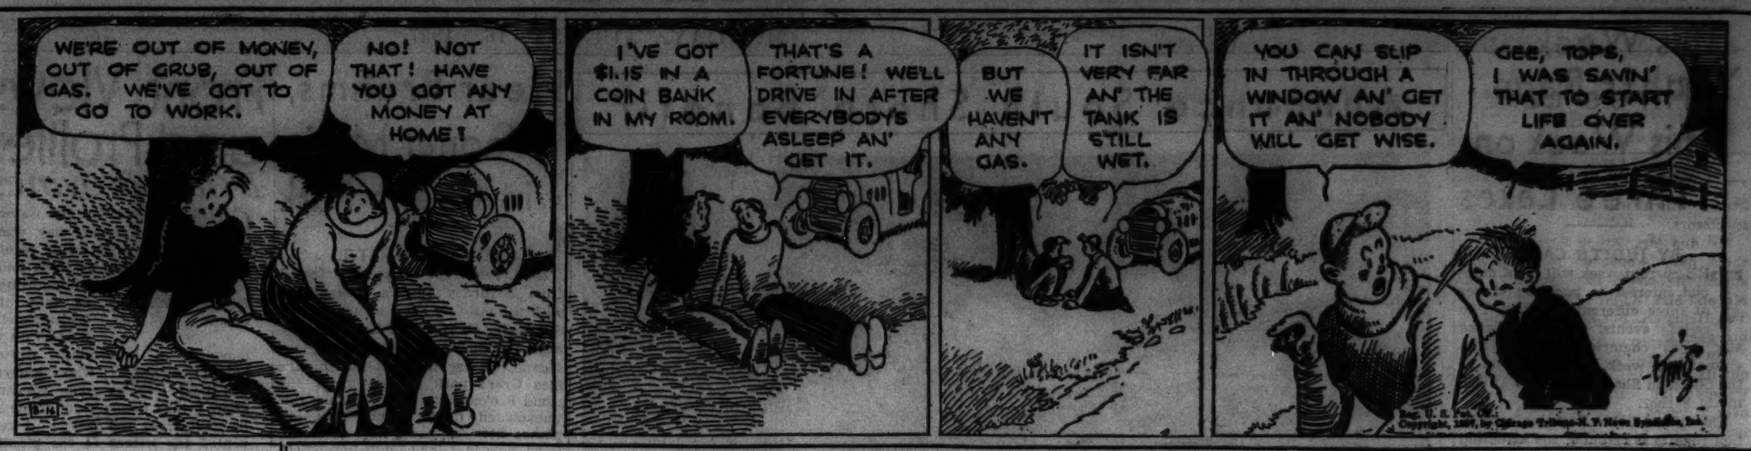
GASOLINE ALLEY—THE FINAL STRAW



WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Mess Call

Own Happiness in Wedded Life Is Narrow View

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I have been keeping company with a certain young man who shows serious intentions. I find out, however, that we are not alike in our ways and that he has a great deal of responsibility, such as a mother, brother, and sister to support. I gave him up for a while but found that I missed him so much I was unhappy. Still, I would like your advice as to whether you think I would be making a grave mistake in marrying him under the circumstances. Some of my friends advise that happiness would be out of the question for me and that it would be better to stay single than marry him with all his responsibilities. ETTA."

Your friends are probably right in advising you that it would be better to stay single than marry under the circumstances, Etta, because your sympathies are not with the young man and his responsibilities, and because you are not compatible in tastes and ways. Altogether, that would create too many barriers. Marriage has enough of its own little problems without adding such unbeatable ones as you name.

However, we are somewhat impressed with the emphasis you put on your happiness, it being paramount to whether you would bring any happiness into the man's life by marrying him. The latter, really, is the angle of approach for one who considers the future wisely. But rarely do we hear people asking: "Will I make him or her happy?" It's invariably: "Will I be made happy?"

True, it is normal to want to be assured that your life will be congenial with a mate, that you'll have an income that will assure the decent comforts, and that you won't be bowed down with dependent in-laws. We are not criticizing you in the particular circumstances, Etta, since you two obviously are not well mated in a number of ways. Your note just reminds us that something ought to be said in favor of considering making the other person happy.

Not long since we had an interview with a young man who confessed being hopelessly in love with a young woman. A dozen times in the conversation he repeated that he never would marry unless he were absolutely guaranteed happiness. His whole problem, as presented, was whether we thought the girl the right one to make him happy.

When we advanced the idea that it might be well to consider whether he had it in him to make the girl happy he looked puzzled. The thought never had occurred to him. Then he argued it as inconsequential, since he was the one who was offering the girl matrimony. We see dark clouds ahead for a marriage like that. It isn't the girl seeking happiness for herself or the man for himself that makes marriage go. It's trying, in each case, to make the other happy that we observe success in marriage.

Yachts Race This Week on Three Lakes

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce P. Adams and their baby went up yesterday to spend the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Nelson Pelouze. The Henry H. Porters also are having guests.

Not an evening this week is without its festivities. Tonight the Bilge Pullers club, composed of skippers over 25 years of age, is having a dinner at the Big Foot Country club, and afterward Harry Melges will be host at a barn dance in a boat company warehouse.

Dinner-Dance Tomorrow at Lake Geneva Club.

Tomorrow night there will be a dinner dance at the Lake Geneva Country club. The Gartzes will be hosts to a party of fifty. Their daughter, Miss Gloria Garts, will have 30 of her friends as guests, and the Harry N. Giffords, the Henry P. Ishams, the Philip A. Starcks, the Arthur W. Wakeleys, and Lawrence H. Whiting also will have large parties.

Another dinner dance will be held at the Big Foot Country club at the west end of the lake Wednesday evening, when the Gartzes again will entertain a large group of friends. Thursday night there will be a dinner for officers of the Inland Lakes Yachting association, visiting owners and skippers.

Friday night, Cup night, will be marked by a dinner dance at the Big Foot Country club when all trophies will be awarded. This event will be postponed to Saturday night if the wind has been unfavorable, and the three races held in each class have not been run off by Friday night.

Mrs. Seymour Wheeler has sailed for England to be away six weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron S. Harvey have gone to Colorado for a short visit. Two of their sons and their wives, the junior Byron Harveys, and the J. Stewart Harveys, are exchanging addresses in September. The Junior Mr. and Mrs. Harvey will come from Kansas City to live at 70 Cedar street, and the Stewart Harveys will move to Kansas City.

The Arthur C. Tobins and several of their friends will be in Danville Sept. 4 for the wedding of the Tobins' son, Arthur R. Tobin, to Miss Sarah Elizabeth Fisher, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Fisher. The wedding will take place at 4 o'clock at the Fishers' home, with a reception there afterward.

Mrs. Tobin and her daughter, Miss Eleanor Tobin, who went abroad shortly after the latter's graduation from Bryn Mawr in June, are returning Sunday. Mrs. Thad Hoke, the Tobins' eldest daughter, is here on a visit from Oklahoma with her infant son, and is remaining until after the wedding. Mr. Tobin and his bride will make their home on the south side.

Postpone Entertaining for Gen. and Mrs. Peyton.

Fort Sheridan's new commanding officer, Brig. Gen. Philip B. Peyton, and Mrs. Peyton, are the guests of Col. and Mrs. Charles Bonesteel for a few days. They will move into the house until recently occupied by Brig. Gen. Dana T. Merrill, former commanding officer, and Mrs. Merrill.

Entertaining for the Peytons will be postponed until after Fort Sheridan officers and men return next month from maneuvers in Wisconsin, and will be in full swing during the annual Fort Sheridan Horse show, scheduled for Sept. 25 and 26.

Northwestern university's Purple ball has been scheduled for Nov. 19, the eve of the Northwestern-Notre Dame football game. The ball probably will be held in the Palmer house.

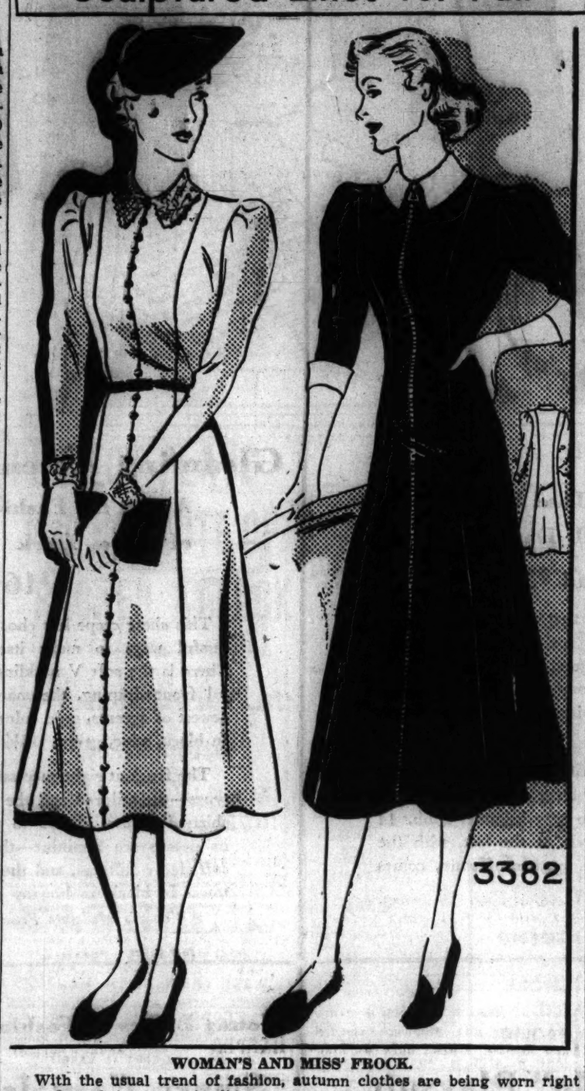
Sculptured Lines for Fall



WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

With the usual trend of fashion, autumn clothes are being worn right now. One of the first splendid vogues to start the new season is the black jersey with sculptured lines. Usually shirring plays a prominent part, but the pattern we are presenting today keeps to straighter styling, and with eminent success.

The lines of this model are on the princess order, giving a delightfully long line from neckline to hem. The frock clings to the figure beautifully, and no fabric is better adapted to this clinging idea than is rayon jersey. A zipper is employed as closing all the way down the front. The puffed sleeves extend to just below the elbows, where they are treated to trimly tailored cuffs to match the shirtwaist collar.

Satin is another possibility for this frock. Metal cloths are coming into their own again this fall, especially those with a foundation of white, and such contrast would be lovely with satin or dull crêpe. For practical wear this same pattern is pretty in velveteen or sheer woolen.

This dress is exceedingly easy to make. Just join a few seams and there you are! A diagrammed sewing chart is included with the pattern, which should make it no trick at all for even a tyro to sew.

Style No. 3382 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3⅞ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅛ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

Kids, It's Fascinating Spy Photoplay Sally Invites You to See

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Almost everyone is fascinated by stories of the activities of spies, and boys and girls find such tales especially interesting, which is just one of the reasons I know my guests will enjoy "The Firefly." You'll see some of the cleverest and most unusual tricks of the trade in this beautiful movie about the war between Spain and France more than 100 years ago.

If you hope to come to my party for 100 boys and girls at the Erlanger Aug. 26, just write me a letter and tell me why you think you'd have a good time if you were selected as one of my guests. That's all I want to know, because I want this party to include children who'll appreciate such a treat.

When writing, be sure to include your name, address and age, and have your letter mailed in plenty of time to reach my desk by Thursday morning. The winners will be selected then.

Simple Four Patch Is Easy Quilt for Beginners to Make

Road to Oklahoma.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

This simple four patch is one of the easiest of all quilt patterns. Beginning quilt makers never hesitate to try the "Road to Oklahoma" because it may be made from surplus materials in the scrap bag. Set together in an all over design, this pattern forms a continuous path across the quilt which is certainly symbolic of the trek westward made by the hardy pioneers in the days of our grandmothers. Fifty-six of these 12 inch blocks set together and bound with a 3 inch border produce a coverlet which measures 90 by 102 inches. If a coverlet composed of alternate pieced and plain blocks is made, the quilting for the plain blocks is the feather circle. For the border the horn of plenty would be appropriate.

Two Kinds of Picnic Menus Offer Variety

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Some folks like to picnic delicately in the park, spreading the dinner neatly upon a beautiful tablecloth, and eating daintily with a fork. Others would rather rough it in the country over an open fire, scorching the steak without a murmur of regret, smearing catsup from ear to ear with a greedy and rhythmic motion of the incisors.

For two kinds of picnickers I offer two kinds of picnic menus.

Culbertson's "Gold Book of Bidding and Play"

[Copyright: 1937: By Ely Culbertson.]

It is necessary that the asking bid be at least a four bid. Once an agreed trump suit has been established by a raise, the player can be sure of recognizing an asking bid by listening for a bid in a new suit at the level of four or higher.

To illustrate:

South — North
1 spade — 3 spades
4 diamonds [asking bid]

Here the suit is directly agreed by a raise and the four diamond bid is at the level of four-odd. Hence it is an asking bid.

South — North
1 heart — 3 hearts
3 spades — 4 clubs [asking bid]

Although hearts is the agreed suit, had North bid four hearts or four spades, either bid would have been a regulation bid, since it was not made in a new suit.

An asking bid after an opening two bid:

South — North
2 spades — 3 spades
4 clubs [asking bid]

But,

3 spades — 3 no trump
4 diamonds [regulation bid].

Four diamonds is not an asking bid. The opening two bidder merely shows, by his rebid, a strong spade suit and then a weak diamond suit.

4 no trump	Double	5 spades [final bid]

As a matter of fact, North's triple raise was an eminently correct preempt. Obviously, however, he must have felt that he had overbid the hand because when, a moment later, he had the chance to show the one card for which partner was searching, he fumbled it miserably. South had bid four no trump on the precise hope that North would be able to show the diamond ace. If he could, a slam would be an odds-on chance, since the solid heart suit almost surely would permit the discarding of as many losing diamonds as North held. Of course, if the answer to four no trump were five clubs, South would lose interest in the slam, since that would mean that the opponents presumably could take two diamond tricks at the start.

West's double of four no trump probably threw North into a panic, his one idea being to escape onto safe ground. It is hard to conceive, however, that he should not have realized that it would be just as safe to bid five diamonds en route to a final spade contract.

Obviously South's idea that the diamond ace would permit a slam was correct. But, because of North's panic, instead of earning the slam bonus, the partnership received credit only for an overtrick.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: In the following bidding situation, is the double meant for a take-out or does the doubler expect his partner to pass?

South	West	North	East
1 no trump	Pass	Pass	2 diamonds
Double	Pass	?

Answer: This is a penalty double. A double never is for a take-out when the doubler previously had opened with a no trump bid.

Give Children Independence When Possible

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

I don't say it's easy for a father and mother to grant increasing independence to their teen age sons and daughters. Inversely, you have to put restrictions on yourself when you widen their independence—not to interfere in every little thing, not to give directions, not to worry, or at least not to show your worry.

"I went in my room and wept, imagine it, the night that Dick said he wanted to take the car, get Sam and Ken [two other eighteen year olds] and go off for a month—where ever their fancy led them, without any grownups, to see the world," said one mother the other day. "But I knew it was the age for adventure, the age of the 'itching foot,' and that it would be a deep, unsatisfied longing if Dick didn't go. I knew the other boys were as level headed as Dick, were good drivers, and had had a good, sensible upbringing. One was an artist, one a naturalist, one a good fellow, so there would be a point to their trip, too. I finally argued myself into it because I knew it would be a fine experience and that Dick had been feeling confined for a long time. So we compromised on two weeks for the first adventure, and they're off now, the car full of snake sticks, high boots, a painting kit, field glasses, army cots, thermos jugs, and so forth, and the boys full of enthusiasm."

Here's still another short narrative: "I let Joan make two very important decisions about her own future last winter after we'd 'hashed it all over,' as she says. She's matured and developed mentally since to a surprising degree, and has gained in poise too. I can see plainly that it has done something for her."

Grant your older boys and girls every independence you can. Treat them as adults as far as possible. If your children feel that you're helping them to grow up, not dragging them back into childhood all the time, they'll develop better and faster; they will accept the few restrictions you feel you must impose, and you'll both remain close friends and allies under all the self-absorption that is a normal aspect of these years.

Camp Children to Have Circus of Their Own

BY DORIS LOCKERMAN.

The tenement children vacationing at Camp Algonquin are going to have a circus next Sunday. It will be an unusual show because most of them have never seen a circus.

But under the guidance of Mrs. Astrid Save, camp superintendent, their plans are shaping up. The children and their mothers—there are 320 in all—will dress up like elephants, ostriches, and dragons, and perform for their counsellor audience.

Home made costumes, fashioned of dyed muslin, will transform mothers into gypsies, clowns and freaks. Animal heads made from chicken wire, old newspapers, glue, and wallpaper will impart the carnival touch to two-legged giraffes and bears. A tin pan band, a water bottle trio, and a ribbon symphony will lead the parade before the two ring show opens.

Camp Algonquin's circus will be in the nature of an added attraction. The camp's regular routine of swimming in its shady pool, boating on Fox river, and daily ball games will not be curtailed. Under the trees, with pert black eyed susans growing close to their blankets, the camp's babies and tired, sick mothers will lie and get more than their normal amount of rest.

More than 1,200 underprivileged children and several hundred weary mothers have shared the joys of the camp since it opened on June 20. The last group of vacationers this season will enroll at the camp on Aug. 25 for their chance at health and vigor.

It costs only $9.10 to send a child to camp, and $25.20 to send a mother and her two children. Contributions may be sent to the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., Tribune square, Chicago. Each will be acknowledged in these columns.

Danville to Unveil Plaque in Memory of Gurdon Hubbard

Danville, Ill., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—A bronze plaque will be dedicated in the courthouse here next Wednesday to the memory of Gurdon Saltonstall Hubbard, early Illinois trader. Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley will speak.

Hubbard first visited Fort Dearborn at Chicago in 1818 while in the employ of a fur company. Nine years later he established several trading posts of his own in Illinois and made his business headquarters here. He built the first Vermilion county courthouse on the site of the present building. In 1832 he became a resident of Chicago.

Hubbard served as a lieutenant of the Vermilion county Rangers in the Black Hawk war, and in 1827 when Chicago was threatened by the Winnebagos of Wisconsin he was instrumental in having 50 Rangers sent to the aid of the city.

SQUAD STUDIES NOTRE DAME'S STYLE OF PLAY

Agett Makes Bid for Punting Job.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The All-American football squad, now 64 strong, swept through an intensely active two hour drill yesterday morning at Dyche stadium, which at its conclusion not only found all the boys more than willing to quit for luncheon, but went far toward covering the fundamentals necessary before the players can be sent through a scrimmage. From 10 o'clock until past noon the football stars of the nation dug in their cleats and went through the routine drills of offense and defense.

No All-Star team ever has made more rapid progress in its first two practice sessions. In fact, this year's team, the largest in the four year history of the series sponsored by THE TRIBUNE, has been organized more quickly than any other. With 15 days of practice remaining, many of which will have double sessions, the coaches do not anticipate any serious trouble choosing the men who will bear the burden of the game against the Green Bay Packers on Sept. 1 at Soldiers' field.

Only Two Absent.

Only two of the squad of 67 elected in the national players' poll were absent last night. George Bell, Purdue center, and Nello Falaschi, Santa Clara blocking back, have been unable to report because of illness and injury. Gil Kuhn, Southern California center, arrived last night. He had been delayed in Los Angeles because of his duties as assistant director for a picture company where he was technical adviser for the filming of a football story.

All members of the squad yesterday were examined by Dr. William Rothman, chief of THE TRIBUNE A. A. staf of physicians, which supervises all sports promotions. An equally thorough test was the two hour drill under the hot sun. All came through splendidly, indicating they are in condition for the drills to follow.

The schedule today calls for practice this morning at 9:30 and again this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The vacation yesterday afternoon, when more than half of the squad attended the Cubs-Cincinnati double-header, may be the last free period for a week.

Nothing New to These.

"Hike! One, two, three; one, two!"

Hundreds of times a score of All-America back field men counted the cadence of the Notre Dame shift and the count for the one second pause after the shift as they raced down the gridiron. To many—Al Agett of Michigan State, Bob Wilke and Larry Danbom of Notre Dame, Ed Jankowski of Wisconsin, Art Guepe and Ray Buivid of Marquette, John Drake of Purdue, By Haines and Jimmy Cain of Washington, Joe Riley of Alabama—it was a repetition of a cadence they had drilled incessantly in their undergraduate days. For others it was unfamiliar but a comparatively easy first step toward the formation of an attack with which the All-Stars expect to whip the Packers.

The back field combinations were formed so that each had men who were thoroughly versed in the Notre Dame shift. They helped Jimmy Phelan and Gus Dorais in the instruction of the others. Only an off tackle play to the right and to the left was used in their elemental instruction. Toward the conclusion of the practice period all the backs practiced the shift in unison, a back field of more than 20 men.

PERFECT PLAYS ARE KEYNOTE OF PACKER ATTACK

Lambeau Limits His List; Seeks Finesse.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Green Bay, Wis., Aug. 15.—Professional football, which in three previous All-Star games relied upon the individual brilliance and greater experience of its representatives, the Bears and Lions, this year will center its quest for the first decisive victory in the series on finesse and perfection of execution.

It was in pursuance of this new strategy that Coach Curley Lambeau limited his world champion Packer squad to 29 men, 23 veterans and 6 rookies, the smallest in the history of the All-Star game.

After two drills today, in which all preliminaries to the strenuous portion of the training period were cleared up, Lambeau revealed another phase of the strategy when he announced that the Packers will go into the game at Soldiers' field on Sept. 1 with only 75 plays, including formations for punting and place kicking.

Less than Half Bears' Répertoire.

This is less than half the répertoire the Bears carried into the 1935 game, when 154 plays netted them no better than a 5 to 0 victory on a field goal and a safety. It is 35 plays less than the Lions prepared for last year's contest in which they were forced to rally to earn a 7 to 7 tie.

Careful study of the Bears' and Lions' experience in the previous games has led Lambeau to the conclusion that only perfect performance of offensive maneuvers will allow the professionals to utilize their individual brilliance against a team as highly emotionalized as the All-Stars.

Lack of time prevents proper preparation of more than 40 plays, Lambeau believes. It also prevents devoting the proper attention to new men. Lambeau would have preferred to tackle the All-Stars assignment with not a rookie in camp. When this was impossible, he limited the newcomers to the absolute minimum—two backs and four line men. This group includes Darrell Lester, center from Texas Christian; Lyle Sturgeon, tackle from North Dakota State; Zud Schammel, Iowa guard; Walter Bartanen, Ferris [Mich.] college tackle, and Ray Peterson, of San Francisco, and Herbert Banet of Manchester college, both half backs.

Lester was a member of last year's All-Star squad, but suffered a shoulder injury in the first scrimmage and did not play against the Lions. He had been allotted to the Chicago Cardinals in the draft, but entered chamber of commerce work at Fort Worth, Tex. The Cardinals traded their option on him to the Packers for Reynolds, giant Stanford tackle, who starred in last year's All-Star game and then entered the oil business. Lester is 6 feet 3 inches tall and weighs 210 pounds.

Takes Schwammel's Place.

Sturgeon, a powerful fellow standing 6 feet 3 inches in height and weighing 260 pounds, will attempt to take over the place left vacant by the retirement of Ade Schwammel, the former Oregon State tackle, who starred in the first All-Star game in 1934.

Bartanen, 6 feet 1 inch, weighs 260 pounds. Schammel, who has been out of football several years, also meets the professional standard physically. He is 6 feet 2 inches tall and weighs 235 pounds. Peterson and Banet, the backs, have been the most impressive in the three workouts to date, but Lambeau expects all six of the freshmen to remain with the club and to play considerable of the All-Star game.

Peterson revealed exceptional kicking talent in the three hour drill this morning, matching the long spirals of Clark Hinkle, George Sauer, Chester Johnson, and Arnie Herber. Banet, a 202 pound half back and safety man, who stands 6 feet 3 inches tall, is being tabbed by observers as one of the outstanding backs to join the Packers in half a dozen seasons.

WHO'S THE STAR? EASY: EVERYBODY

IT'S FINAL THIS TIME; PAUL DEAN IS OUT UNTIL 1938

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Cardinal officials announced tonight that Paul Dean, who recently underwent a shoulder operation in an effort to bring his pitching arm back to normal, had decided to apply for voluntary retirement for the remainder of the season.

The decision came as somewhat of a surprise. After Paul's two-inning exhibition pitching at Belleville, Ill., last week it was believed he would be given an assignment at an early date.

Prior to today's double loss to the Pirates, it was announced that both Paul and Dizzy Dean, who also has a sore arm, would accompany the Cardinals on their road trip. But about the time their train departed tonight, the new announcement was made.

Frank Wearne Finally Wins an Auto Race

Frank Wearne of Los Angeles, who has been trying to win an automobile race around Chicago since May, finally succeeded yesterday at the Fair Grounds speedway. Wearne, always in a contending position, took the lead at the 34th lap of the 25 mile feature event and maintained it to the finish.

Wearne's time for the 25 miles over the half mile dirt saucer was 24 minutes and 30-hundredths of a second. A crowd of 7,500 saw the program run off without a mishap.

A stroke of luck brought Wearne his victory. Bill Winn of Detroit was leading and setting a fast pace for the field of 14 until a blowout forced him to lose a lap. He changed wheels swiftly, but he never could make up those precious seconds and finished out of the prize money.

Second place went to Ted Horn of Los Angeles. Frank Beeder of St. Louis was third, Chet Gardner of Indianapolis, fourth; George Connor of Los Angeles, fifth, and Lou Webb of Indianapolis, sixth.

FIRST RACE [15 laps]—Won by Tony Willman, Milwaukee; Jimmy Snyder, Chicago, second; Ted Horn, Los Angeles, third; Frank Wearne, Los Angeles, fourth. Time, 7:10.61.

SECOND RACE [15 laps]—Won by Frank Beeder, St. Louis; Chet Gardner, Indianapolis, second; Billy Winn, Detroit, third; Lou Webb, Indianapolis, fourth. Time, 7:16.07.

RIGGS CAPTURES EASTERN GRASS COURTS CROWN

Rye, N. Y., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Bobby Riggs, Hollywood, Cal., won the eastern grass court tennis singles title today when he upset Frankie Parker of Milwaukee, top-seeded player and a member of the Davis cup team, in straight sets. The scores were 6-3, 7-5, 7-5.

It was the third successive major tournament won by Riggs, who holds the national clay court title, but the first of them in which he fully earned the victory. At Seabright, N. J., and Southampton, N. Y., he got the benefit of defaults by his last round opponents.

SOX TURN BACK INDIANS TWICE, 5 TO 3 AND 3 TO 2

Climb to Third Place in League Standing.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Aug. 15.—The White Sox, unwilling to face the home folks on the record of their eastern trip prior to this beautiful Sabbath, this afternoon headed home joyful at having twice licked the Cleveland Indians in a double-header before 32,281 in Cleveland stadium. Ted Lyons was the boss man in the 5 to 3 triumph in the first game and Thornton Lee, with brilliant assistance from the inevitable Clint Brown, was the victor in the 3 to 2 second game.

The double success enabled the Sox to get right back in the thick of the fight to determine the team that is to be runner-up to the New York Yankees. They gained a game and a half on the Tigers to land a half game out of second place, and they took third place over the Red Sox, on whom they gained two games. They also resumed their season edge on the Indians, evened yesterday, but now 7 to 5 in favor of the Chicagoans.

Let's Forget It.

The long and arduous trip ended with the Sox winning nine games and losing an even dozen. The devastating part of the trip was the loss of four straight to the Yankees, three of which should have been won, and the loss of the first three games in Boston, which piled up a seven game losing streak. Since that losing streak the Sox haven't been so bad, having won the final in Boston, two out of three in Detroit, where they previously hadn't won a decision this season, and two out of four here.

Lyons pitched well to ring up his eighth victory of the season, and besides pitching an eight hitter had the satisfaction of scoring the winning run after singling in the ninth. Lyons' greatest distress, perhaps, came not from the accomplishments of the Indians against his pitching but through being forced to watch the fadeouts of his mates during the eight inning term of the boy wonder, Bob Feller.

The Indians outhit the Sox, 10 to 6, but Lee was good and Brown was better in several big jams that developed. Lee, who retired with one run in, one out and the bases full, was given his ninth victory of the season for the good reason that Brown halted the parade that he had started.

FIRST GAME

The Indians started the scoring in the second inning of the first game when they grouped three singles and a long fly for a pair of runs. With one down Campbell singled and went to third on Hale's single to center; Sullivan singled to right, scoring Campbell and putting Hale on third. Hale scored on Feller's long fly to Radcliff and Sullivan was out trying to steal second.

Walker opened the fourth with a triple to right center. Then came a routine that has become painfully familiar to followers of the Chicagoans. Radcliff fouled to Hale, Appling whiffed, and Haas was thrown out by Lary.

They Should Have Had More.

The Sox scored one run but should have scored more in the fifth. Piet started off with a single and went to third on Rensa's single. Lyons struck out the second time; then Rensa stole second. Hayes flied to Solters, Piet scoring. Kreevich tapped to Kroner.

The Sox again had to be content with one run after getting the first two batsmen on third and first in the sixth inning. Walker led off with a single and went to third on Radcliff's single. Walker scored the tying run and Radcliff reached second on a wild pitch. Radcliff took third while Kroner was tossing out Appling. With the infield pulled in, Haas tapped

CHICAGO DROPS OPENER, 13 TO 6, THEN 2D, 9 TO 8

Four Pitchers Blow Up in 1st Game.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs, who a short time back could hear the musical flapping of a prospective pennant, are in straitened circumstances. Their seven game lead of less than two weeks ago has melted down until the second place Giants now are only four games in the rear. The Reds, who are said to be doormats for prospective champions, are responsible. They chiseled off one game Saturday. Yesterday they came back, knocked over the jittery first placers and triumphed twice by the scores of 13 to 6 and 9 to 8.

It all happened because of a scarcity of pitchers. Tex Carleton, Clyde Shoun, Leroy Parmelee and even Charles Root were annihilated in the first battle. The second struggle was worse although the score was more respectable. Clay Bryant couldn't even survive the opening inning when five Reds dashed across the plate and the Cub defense cracked wide open. The Cubs bounced back hurriedly and took the lead, but it didn't mean anything. The Reds simply hammered Curt Davis and then Parmelee for the second time.

Derringer Is Another Story.

The Cubs and 31,000 spectators thought everything had been arranged satisfactorily in the first game when four runs were slapped home against Lee Grissom, the budding southpaw, in the third inning. A double by Joe Marty chased three of these four across the plate and it put the home troops in front, 5 to 1. But as soon as this splurge had been quieted Grissom resigned and Paul Derringer appeared. He kept the Cubs in check while Carleton, Shoun, Parmelee and Root were mauled.

Bryant's start in the second nightmare was such a frightful affair that he didn't retire one of the six men who faced him. The Cubs knocked out Gene Schott and Grissom once again off the landscape in the second inning to take a 6 to 5 lead. Thereafter the Reds concentrated on homers. Lew Riggs tied it with one off Curt Davis in the third. An error by Billy Herman helped the Reds to another in the fourth. In the fifth Riggs repeated, giving Cincinnati a two run lead.

The Cubs weren't quite through. Ken O'Dea, whose triple had assisted in the five run second inning, hit a homer into the seats with a man on base in the seventh. That hit created a tie, but not for long. Parmalee, who in the seventh inning made his second appearance of the afternoon, tossed a home run ball to Alex Kampouris in the eighth and that was the run that proved the winner.

FIRST GAME

Although perfect in the opening inning of the first battle, Grissom had a real struggle getting through the second session with nothing worse than one run resulting. For a starter Demaree walked and moved to third on Hartnett's two bagger to left center. Jurges was put away on strikes and Galan walked, loading the bases. Grissom also struck out Marty, whereupon the Cubs enjoyed a break. Carleton poked a slow roller toward third and beat the throw for a hit, Demaree scoring. Hack then tapped to Riggs for the third out.

Carleton was assessed for two passes and a hit in the second inning, all this happening before the second out. Tex escaped from the jam. He wasn't that fortunate in the third, the Reds picking up the tying run. G. Davis led off with a single to center and hiked to third on Walker's line single over Herman's head. Goodman clubbed a fly into Galan's hands and G. Davis scored. Scarsella also flied to Galan. V. Davis walked and Demaree took Riggs' fly.

Four Hits and Four Runs.

The Cubs' third inning, in which four hits were enough to score as many runs, was launched on a walk

WELL EARNED VACATION WILL BE GIVEN MARICA

Hawthorne Gold Cup Is Next for Star Mare.

BY FRENCH LANE.

A well earned vacation is to be enjoyed by the champion race mare of the year, Marica. Her owner, Thomas D. Taggart, made this known yesterday before he left for his French Lick Springs home.

His face turned red when he made the further announcement that her vacation would be spent—not in French Lick Springs—but in Chicago.

The reason? Well, according to present plans Marica is to be pointed for the Hawthorne Gold Cup to be run next month, in which she will have a chance to match her speed and courage in a battle with Seabiscuit, the recognized handicap champion of the year.

Chicagoans Ready to Back Her.

Owner Taggart doesn't know whether Marica can beat Seabiscuit or not. In fact, he rather doubts it. Yet, regardless of what he thinks, a lot of Chicagoans are ready to give stout backing to Marica against Seabiscuit if the handicappers do not put a ton of weight on the French Lick Springs mare's back.

Marica no doubt could pick up several more thousand dollars if she tried for the remaining stake races and handicaps for older horses at Lincoln Fields.

She is eligible for the one to be run next Saturday—the $2,500 added Steger handicap at seven furlongs. In order to make that race an interesting contest Racing Secretary Will Shelley would of necessity have to increase her weight impost beyond the 122 pound load she carried in Saturday's Peabody Memorial handicap, which she won so easily in the sensational time of 1:35 2-5 for the mile.

Doesn't Want a Breakdown.

Owner Taggart has no intention of letting the track handicappers put so much weight on Marica's back that it will result in a physical breakdown.

Racing secretaries and handicappers do not want to do that, either, but they can't be so kind as to let Mr. Taggart's mare come along one week after another and win all the money by a city block. Even the Indiana Democratic boss himself doesn't want that to happen, for he does want a sound racing mare when he sends Marica into his thoroughbred nursery, from which in a few more years will be coming her sons and daughters.

Dolphin Races to Victory at SheridanShore

The Sheridan Shore Yacht club's fourth annual interstate race week opened yesterday off Wilmette harbor with a record fleet of star class sloops. The forty-eight boats constituted the largest number of single design craft ever to race.

Dolphin, sailed by Emerson Raymond and Thomas Waage, was the first of the 22 footers to finish. Its elapsed time for the ten mile course was 1 hour 47 minutes and 11 seconds.

Leading the fleet at the outside buoy on the first round was Ibis, sailed by 18 year old Philip Upton, the owner, who finished second. Ibis represents the St. Joseph-Paw Paw Lake, Mich., star fleet. Ibis' time was 1:49:29. Only three seconds separated the third boat, Twin Star, sailed by Lockwood [Woodie] Pirie, and Gemini, sailed by John T. Pirie II., the fourth. Twin Star's time was 1:50:30.

Aloha, Commodore Kenneth Ball's cutter, sailed by Lilyan Witzel, won the class D cruising event in the Jackson Park Yacht club's annual lady skippers' race yesterday. Chinook was the class C winner, with Betty Bro, sailed by Betty Ruth Friend, as runner-up. Robert Williamson's schooner, Edith III., with Mrs. Williamson at the helm, won in the B class. The Weston-Dunlap syndicate schooner Fame won the Universal yawls and schooners division. Princess, Q class sloop, won the racing division.

Wallace Meets Salvadore in Test Tonight

Gordon Wallace of Vancouver, B. C., and George Salvadore, Houston, Tex., two of the best welterweights in America, will meet in one of the stiffest tests of their respective careers at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, tonight.

Wallace, a rangy fellow with better than average ability, will be making his first Chicago appearance, but his excellent reputation precedes him. On the other hand Salvadore is awaiting his third start in this city. He lost a disputed decision to Milt Aron, Illinois' No. 1 challenger, July 19, and knocked out Eddie Carroll Aug. 9.

As a result the bout, set for ten rounds, appears to be a tossup.

Harry Dublinsky, who has fought both Wallace and Salvadore, thinks Salvadore will win whereas Eddie Long, who handled Dublinsky against Wallace, is of the opinion Wallace will be the victor.

Indian Billy Lee, 147 pound stablemate of Wallace, will fight in the five round semi-final against Chester Rudy of Los Angeles, Cal. Contests at four rounds match Lorenzo Robinson with Joe Moore, Tony Zale with Emanuel Davila and Al Copalbi with Steve Karas.

Chief Sanooke and Fred Grubmier will wrestle in the one hour featured bout at White City, 63d street and South Park avenue, tonight. Mike Kilonis and Jack Conley are principals in the secondary feature. Jack Claybourn hooks up with Jack Purdin, Whitey Walberg clashes with Jim Landes, and Angelo Martini faces Jack Brown. . . . James R. Fitzpatrick, Springfield lumberman, and John Owen, Chicago attorney, will be inducted into office this afternoon at the Illinois athletic commission, the former to fill the vacancy existing since the death of Commissioner Packey McFarland and Owen to succeed Thomas Tuite, who recently resigned as secretary.

Dye? Wildcats Know All About the Little Feller

Burt Ingwersen, Northwestern line coach, visited the College All-Star dressing room in Dyche stadium yesterday, "just to get a closeup of some of those boys who gave us so much trouble these last few years," as he put it.

"They don't look nearly so dangerous when you see them in street clothes," he said. Burt had reference to Tippy Dye, the pint-sized Ohio State quarter back, who ran the Wildcat dizzy two years ago, and Bob Wilkie, tall, slim Notre Dame half back, who reeled off three touchdown runs against the Purple last fall.

The only casualties of the first two days of practice have been a few blisters. First contact work is scheduled for tomorrow when Head Coach Gus Dorais plans to give the backs some blocking drills. Trainer Carl Erickson and his assistants, Bob Peterson and Jack Williamson of the Northwestern staf, are all prepared to administer to sore muscles and bruises that usually crop up once the boys get underway in earnest.

Yesterday morning's practice worked up a real appetite for the players and they did full justice to a bounteous chicken dinner that awaited them at the Goodrich grill upon their return from the stadium.

On the staf of waiters serving the All-Stars are several Northwestern players who have ambitions of winning a place on next year's team. They include John Kovatch, regular end, and Fred Vanzo, husky blocking quarter back. Both will be playing their final year this fall.

Pros, All-Stars an Even Match, Halas Explains

BY GEORGE HALAS.
Head Coach, Chicago Bears.

As it stands, the annual game between the All-Stars and the champions of the National Football league needs no change to add to its excitement and color. If the collegians were matched, for example, against a group of stars made up of the cream of the league's personnel, the contest would not be fair to the college lads.

For almost any coach will tell you that if he could keep a boy in school for an extra two years, he could develop his football ability and knowledge tremendously in the additional seasons.

When the collegians meet the league champions under the present setup, the combination of quality and quantity in a squad of sixty-five top college players offsets the slight advantage of the professional team in having previously played together as a unit. As a matter of fact, the latter advantage is more theoretical than real.

They All Need Practice.

The Green Bay Packers, for example, will not start in where they left off last season for, in modern football, successful execution of plays absolutely depends upon precise timing. That can be acquired only through constant repetition, long hours of work, and plenty of scrimmage over a period of weeks.

The All-Star game, as it is now conducted, represents a balance of factors which insure an exciting contest, in which victory may be turned to either team by the breaks.

If the greatest players in the league were placed together in a huge All-Star squad, it is my belief that it would not be an even contest.

Packers Turn It On.

A large motion picture company was interested in making a sports short featuring the Green Bay team, and two picture representatives sat on the Packer bench during the game with a local club, the Los Angeles Bulldogs. The Bulldogs previously had defeated three league clubs, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, and the Chicago Cardinals, and had held the score down against the Chicago Bears.

Before the game, Coach Curly Lambeau told the Packers about the presence of the two motion picture men and said, "For the love of this and that, show them some football!"

The team outdid itself in every department and rolled up a score of 49 to 0 against the unhappy Bulldogs. To Lambeau's dismay, however, he found the movie men unimpressed. Fortunately, he received a tip before the situation got out of hand.

"Those movie people," he was told, "are not looking for perfect mechanical execution of football. They want something different, novel, that will thrill and interest the public."

A building doesn't have to fall on Curly; one shingle will turn the trick. He sought out the movie men.

"See here," he said, in effect, "we have eight men on this team who can punt sixty yards and place the ball. We've got a forward passer who can hit a bushel basket at sixty yards. We have four men who can boot placements at fifty yards. And we have a center who can pass accurately twenty yards to either side."

"Well, well," the movie people said, "now you're talking our language!"

64 STARS STUDY NOTRE DAME'S STYLE OF ATTACK

Work Over Two Hours for Game with Packers.

And They're All Good.

Another group which worked individually was composed of Lou Drone, St. Louis university, quarter back; Tommy Gibbons, St. Viator, left half; Guepe, right half, and Jankowski, full back.

Lynn Waldorf and Bernie Moore sent the candidates for the line positions through a long blocking drill at the dummies. First the men charged straight ahead, demonstrating ability to carry through initial contact and to use either shoulder for the block. Later, all worked briefly on a charge after pulling out from an imaginary line five yards from the dummies.

Passing and kicking were eliminated from yesterday's drill. The first showing of the kickers on Saturday, however, gave evidence that Michigan State's Al Agett may prove to be the most dependable of this group. Agett punted exceptionally well last year and Sam Francis, Nebraska's long distance kicker, may be pushed to prove he is the best on the team.

Starters Are All on Hand.

The arrival of the Pittsburgh boys, who were in uniform yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, completed the list of 11 men elected to start the battle against the Packers.

PHILLIES' RALLY DIES TOO SOON; GIANTS WIN, 5-3

Castleman Has Shutout for Eight Innings.

New York, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Two ninth inning homers ruined a shutout for Clyde Castleman today, but they didn't stop the young right hander from pitching the Giants to a 5 to 3 victory over the Phillies.

Johnny Moore and Dolph Camilli hit the home runs. Moore's came with one on after Castleman had blanked the Phillies with six hits through the first eight innings and had two out in the ninth.

BIG UTILITIES REPORT LOWER PROFIT IN YEAR

Net Declines Despite Rise in Revenues.

Philip G. Gossler.

Two large utility companies—Columbia Gas and Electric corporation and the Pacific Gas and Electric company—yesterday reported reduced earnings for the year ended June 30.

The Columbia corporation and subsidiaries showed a net income of $12,679,292 for the twelve months after charges. This was equal to 48 cents a common share, and compares with a net of $12,945,118, or 51 cents a common share, in the twelve months to June 30, 1936.

Gross operating revenues of the system for the period aggregated $94,110,336, compared with $86,549,530 in the preceding comparable period. Operating expenses and taxes, not including provision for surtax on undistributed profits for the first half of 1937, were $60,057,166, against $53,619,167 in the preceding year. Total earnings of subsidiaries applicable to the parent company during the period were $17,779,747, compared with $17,800,356 a year ago.

Philip G. Gossler, chairman of the board, in his letter to shareholders accompanying the report announces that owing to the large number of conversions of the 5 per cent cumulative preference stock into common stock, the present annual dividend requirements on the preferred are $358,760 less than such dividends paid during the twelve months ended June 30, 1937.

Pacific Gas Earns Less.

The report of the Pacific company and subsidiaries showed a net income of $25,847,753, after charges, equal to $2.90 a common share. This compares with a net of $22,565,778, or $2.37 a share, in the year to June 30, 1936. Gross operating revenues of the system for the twelve months aggregated $97,922,924, compared with $94,438,521 the year before.

James J. Black, president, in his letter to stockholders accompanying the income statement remarks that the company's business measured in terms of gross revenue, volume of sales, and customers' receiving service continues to maintain an upward trend, although the growth of electric sales in the first half of 1937 proceeded at a more moderate pace than in the latter half of 1936.

Rates Reduced $5,400,000.

"Earnings were influenced during the period under review," Mr. Black writes, "by three major rate reduction. Electric rates were reduced by approximately $3,900,000 a year on Jan. 1, 1936; gas rates were lowered $2,600,000 a year on May 1, 1936, and a further reduction occurred in electric rates amounting to $3,100,000 on Feb. 1, 1937. Compared with the preceding twelve months, during portions of which the first two reductions were also effective, it is estimated that the lower rates reduced gross earnings to the extent of about $5,400,000."

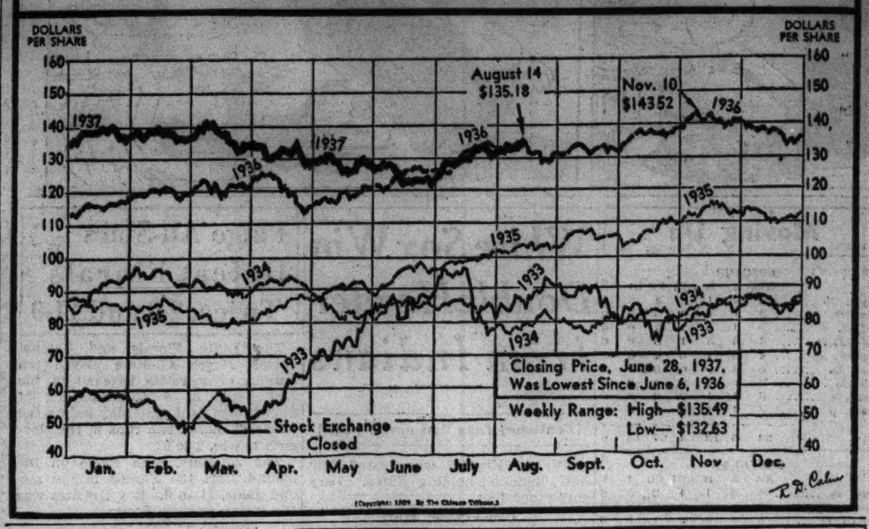
Average Daily Closing Price of 50 Leading Stocks on the New York Stock Exchange



STOCKS LEAVE VACATION RUT; PRICES HIGHER

Action of Congress Helps Trading.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 15.—[Special.]—The late drop of stock trading last week—a week marked by political manuevering rather than any drastic change in the economic situation—provided reason for cheer in Wall street. In the last full day of trading equities staged a sharp advance and volume increased.

For the greater part of the week stock exchange dealings on the whole were typical of midsummer with many brokers and traders on vacation. The market moved in a narrow range for the first four days in dull dealings with the trend being irregular. Wednesday, for instance, the turnover amounted to only 571,000 shares, the lowest total for a full trading day since June 29.

Market Goes Up.

On Friday, however, the market slipped out of the chains that had confined its movements for more than three weeks. Stocks advanced on a broad front, closing at their best levels of the day, many of them up from 1 to 3 points. Total transactions amounted to 1,035,000 shares compared with 793,000 on Thursday. The total was the largest since July 20. Of the 33 trading days since Memorial day, excluding Saturdays, a check-up shows, only nine have been million share days.

Steels, motors, chemicals, farm implements and a batch of miscellaneous issues took leading roles in the upturn. In Saturday's session the improvement in the price structure continued. The volume was the best for a short session in a month. Gains were mainly fractional, but the tone was strong.

Congress' Action a Help.

Most students of the market ascribed the better complexion of the list to developments at Washington where the legislative jam appeared to have been broken. Wall street likes to think that many of Roosevelt's "must" bills will be held over for another session of congress and that the lawmakers will soon adjourn.

The probability the wages and hours bill will not be passed was regarded as imparting strength to the market.

Steel Output Sags to 84 Pct.; Rebound Seen

Steel production last week was estimated yesterday at 84 per cent of ingot capacity by the magazine Steel. This was a loss of half a point from the preceding week, resulting from declines of 2 points in the Youngstown district to 78 per cent and 2 points in eastern Pennsylvania to 69 per cent of capacity.

As partial offsets Detroit gained 10 points to 100 per cent and Wheeling moved up 1 to 94 per cent. Other centers remained unchanged, with Pittsburgh at 83, Chicago 86, Cleveland 85, Buffalo 86, Birmingham and Cincinnati 89 each, New England 65, and St. Louis 77 per cent of capacity.

See Low Level Passed.

Steel makers are confident that the low point of the summer has passed, Steel said. Although there has been little new business in recent weeks, there are indications of renewed quantity buying soon.

Heavy grain crops supporting farm purchasing power are being reflected in the implement and tractor trade, as well as in other consumer goods. Railroads are expected to buy more equipment and rails later in the year.

Large Orders on Books.

Producers of tin plate, sheets, and plates have considerable business on their books and buying is at a fair rate, the trade journal reported. Bars, strip, and some other lines are less promising, with current buying less than deliveries.

Scrap markets were quiet last week, with prices unchanged. Steel's scrap composite price remained at $20.33 per ton.

Everyday Economics

New Financing.

Refunding of outstanding securities still accounts for a large part of the total financing operations of corporations in the United States, but this year, for the first time since business hit the bottom of the depression in 1932, there has been a substantial increase in the sale of securities to raise new capital.

According to a recent report by the Securities and Exchange commission in Washington the amount of money raised for plant expansion and increases in working capital during the first six months of 1937 was the highest for any first half year period since 1933, when the commission began to keep records. Not only was the amount larger, but a similar increase was shown in the percentage of the total of corporate financing which was accounted for by the new capital flotations.

In addition to their borrowing operations through the sale of bonds, notes and debentures American corporations in the first half of 1937 also again began to finance through the sale of common and preferred stock on a substantial scale.

The increase in new financing is the natural accompaniment of expanding business and rising prices. Whereas refunding means no increase in the amount of securities outstanding, new financing reflects the purchase by corporations of new plants and equipment and rising inventories. It is one of the most dependable signs of business recovery.

The volume of new financing is still far below the level of the boom period of the later years of the last decade, but the fact that it has been increasing is regarded as highly encouraging.

PREDICT HIGH WHEAT PRICES FOR NEXT YEAR

U. S. Is Expected to Have Surplus.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

A comparatively high level for wheat prices for the next twelve months appears to be a reasonable certainty, although the United States has more wheat this season than it has had for several years. Nor does this year's sizable wheat harvest threaten to create a price breaking surplus. Instead, the United States will have a profitable export business in wheat.

Had farmers in the United States been subject to a production control program such as the AAA provided, it is doubtful if they would be in the enviable position that they are this year. Farmers last fall planted the largest winter wheat acreage on record—a development which probably would not have occurred under a planned production program.

The result is the best winter wheat crop since 1931 in a year when the rest of the world is not only willing but anxious to buy from this country.

The readiness with which American wheat can be sold abroad this year could not have been forseen last

Monsanto Net for Quarter Is $1.29 a Share

The Monsanto Chemical company earned $1,441,405 or $1.29 a common share in the second quarter of this year, compared with $1,035,730 or 93 cents a share in the June quarter of 1936, Edward M. Queeny, president, announced yesterday. Earnings for the quarter this year were the largest on record for the period, he said. Queeny also reported that net income for the first six months of this year was equivalent to $2.49 a common share, compared with $1.86 a share in the first half of 1936. Provision was made in computing 1937 earnings for probable undistributed profits tax.

The Armstrong Cork company announced a net income of $3,089,360 for the first half of 1937, and reported that in spite of the civil war it's Spanish subsidiary showed net profits in excess of those of a year ago.

The profits amounted to $2.56 a share as compared to $1.38 a share for the first half of 1936, when the company's net income after interest, depreciation, and reserve for normal federal income tax was $1,676,399.

Foreign units of the company including those in Spain reported net earnings of $195,625, for the first half of 1937, the announcement said, against $32,436 for the similar period of 1936.

The Serrick corporation, manufacturers of screw machine products, reported earnings of $209,646 for the first six months of 1937, equal to $1.15 a share on the class B common, before federal taxes but after provision for 45 cents a share dividend on the class A common. In all of 1936 the company earned $334,871, equal to $1.81 on the class B. Sales in the first half of this year were $2,199,974, compared to $1,445,077 in the first half of 1937.

Robert G. Bruce, president of E. L. Bruce company, said a preliminary statement of earnings for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1937, showed earnings of $402,156 after all charges but before preferred dividend payments totaling $86,441. The balance of $315,715 was equivalent to $2.43 a common share. This compared with earnings available for the common of $208,102 or 95 cents a share in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1936.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Standard Steel Spring.

Investors' Guide: Please send me report on Standard Steel Spring company. I saw a news item about its 100 per cent stock dividend.—W. M. H.

Answer: This concern manufactures bumpers, flat leaf springs, rim wrenches, tire carriers, hold straps and other automobile accessories. Business and manufacturing facilities were enlarged considerably during 1936 by acquisition of Gary [Ind.] Structural Steel company and Blood Brothers Machine company, Allegan, Mich. Other plants are located near Pittsburgh and in Racine, Wis.

Reflecting its expansion, the company reported net income of $253,000 or $2.53 a share in the first six months of 1936. This compared with $156,000 or $1.56 a share for all of 1936 and $136,000 or $1.54 a share in 1935. Sales were $4,517,000 in 1936 and $4,549,000 in 1935. Including the full year's earnings of the companies acquired during 1936, net income was $254,000 last year.

Earnings were hurt during 1936 by floods and labor troubles which caused one of the Pennsylvania plants to be shut down for 11 weeks.

That prosperity of this company depends on the degree of prosperity being enjoyed by automobile manufacturers is illustrated by its record. It reached a peak in 1928 with sales of $7,749,000 and net income of $970,000 or $10.30 a share. Net income was almost as large in 1929 but dropped to $429,000 in 1930. Losses of $221,000, $245,000 and $172,000 followed in the next three years, sales amounting to only $706,000 in 1932. With the American public buying more automobiles again, sales were up to $3,827,000 in 1934, and the company emerged from the red with net income of $111,000 or $1.26 a share.

Dividends were omitted from 1931 until 1935, when $1 a share was paid. Including $1.75 paid in December, dividends amounted to $2.50 a share in 1936. The only dividend so far this year was one of $1 paid Aug. 5, before the stock dividend.

The stock is considered medium grade at present.

U. S. Expected to Have Export Surplus.

year. It is doubtful if government agricultural officials would have anticipated such a situation in drawing up production quotas ten months or a year ago. The poor Canadian crop and the mediocre European harvests are creating the market for American wheat and they were not predictable last year.

With no reserve supply of wheat of consequence to fall back on, the world this year will depend almost entirely on this year's production to meet its current consumption. After those needs are met, it does not appear that there will be much surplus grain.

Wheat Declines During Week.

Last week witnessed a further decline in wheat prices in Chicago and other markets. Wheat for delivery in September was quoted as low as $1.11⅝ a bushel, compared with $1.29⅜ a few weeks ago. The market is currently carrying the load of heavy sales which normally occur as the crop moves to market after harvest.

The government's estimate of total wheat production this year at 890 million bushels also proved a bearish market influence. The estimate was only 8 million bushels larger than the forecast made a month earlier but most private statisticians had figured that prospective production had declined during the month. As a consequence, the government's report was an upset to the market.

Week's Range of Prices.

	Wheat.			——Close——

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Wheat Margin Shrinks.

Aug. 15, 1937.

SEPTEMBER wheat is now within 3 cents a bushel of the contract price of $1.08¾ a bushel which THE TRIBUNE'S farms are to get for 1,000 bushels that are to be delivered next month. With September wheat closing at $1.11¾ a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade at noon yesterday, the farms' $500 margin fund is now short only $30.

The nearer the price of September wheat approaches the farms' contract price the less money the farms will lose on the futures wheat deal. Should the price of September wheat go below the contract price of $1.08¾ a bushel, the farms would profit by having sold wheat on the futures market, despite the fact that only 322 bushels of saleable wheat were raised on the two places. Margin money collected would help to offset losses on the small amount of cash wheat sold.

Harvesting Completed.

Harvesters on the Tribune farms completed the threshing of the 1937 small grain crop last week. From 389 acres of wheat, oats, rye, and barley the two farms produced a total of 14,266 bushels.

Oats were the last to be threshed on the Yorkville place. The work was completed a few days ago and the yield from 160 acres of oats amounted to a total of 8,550 bushels. All the oats were of the Iowar variety. The average was 53.4 bushels an acre.

The cutting and threshing of the oats crop with a combine was finished at the Wheaton farm last week. Sixty-four acres yielded 2,630, or an average of slightly more than 41 bushels an acre. Both Iowar and Columbia varieties were grown. One 20 acre field of Columbia produced 1,028 bushels, averaging more than 50 bushels per acre.

All the straw has been saved for feed and bedding. At the Wheaton farm the straw from the four different kinds of small grain was baled soon after it was blown from the combine. Baling was completed last week. The farm has a total of 59 tons of high grade straw.

Yorkville Straw Stacked.

Much of the straw at the Wheaton place was too long to be cut low with the combine harvester—there is a limit to the amount of straw that will go through the old model combine now in use. The rye straw was especially long, which made it necessary to leave long stubble over most of the field. Last week several acres of the rye stubble where a fair crop of young alfalfa sprang up was cut with a mower. The straw and the cured alfalfa hay were baled together.

Grasshoppers damaged a one acre test field of Erban oats and only about two-thirds of them were saved. The manager estimates that if the pests had not attacked the oats the yield would have been at least 45 bushels; instead only 30 2-3 bushels were threshed.

"Important to Used Car Buyers"

Your satisfaction is vitally important to me. I would not knowingly have an employe sell you a used car that is not as represented, and if you should ever find cause for complaint you will receive every consideration from me and my employes. The following cars are recommended for their durability, economy, performance, and appearance. They are unusually good.
